this morning.

A case of smallpox occurred soon after the vessel left Yokohama, and the victim, a Chinese steerage passenger, was landed at Honolulu. The anthoritles there declined to give the Belgic a clean bill of health, and, consequently, she will go in quarantine here. She anchored in the lower end of the bay apon her arrival here this morning, and the officers would not permit any mail matter to be taken ashore. The custom-house tug, with a number of newspaper reporters aboard, went out to the steamer, and from the officers and passengers aboard were learned a few facts in regard to political affairs at Honolulu. Martial law was declared off by the provisional government February 5, and everything was quiet on the islands. Everybody was anxiously awaiting news from the United States, and the sentiment in favor of annexation appeared to be steadily growing.

HAWAIIAN CROWN LANDS. -

The Commissioners Say They Belong to WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 .- [By the Associated Press.] The commissioners of the Hawaiian government were today shown the dispatch from San Francisco stating that F. S. Pratt, Hawaiian Con sul-General, had sent Vice-President Morton a protest against ratifying that part of the annexation treaty that applied to crown lands in Hawaii.

They said the assertion that Pratt's wife had any claim to crown lands was without good foundation. Since 1865 the lands have been under the control of the Hawaiian government, and their proceeds disbursed for government purprocess discussed to government pur-poses. The expenses of the resigning family, however, were paid from this specific revenue. Mrs. Pratt is not a member of the reigning family, though descended from the chiefs. The status of the lands, estimated by the commissioners to be worth more than $2,500,000, has they say been set. $2,500,000, has, they say, been set-tled beyond any question of doubt since 1865, when the government acquired a perfect title to them.

HAWAIIAN NEWS.

The Situation in the Islands Unchanged— The National Debt. Honolulu, Feb. 10.—[Associated Press correspondence telegraphed from San Francisco. j The steamship Mari-posa arrived here at 9 o'clock this morning, seven days from San Francisco. As the steamer rounded Diamond Head, marine glasses were turned toward the thore, enabling those on board to see the Stars and Stripes floating over the tower of the government building. In the stream were the U.S.S. Boston and the Japanese training ship Kongo. Nothing has been heard of the steamer Claudine, which left San Francisco for Honolulu on Thursday, before the sailing of the Mariposa.

SITUATION UNCHANGED -- ALL QUIET. At Honolulu the condition of affairs has not changed since the Australia sailed, February L. The provisional government is still holding the reins of power, and has enacted some legislation, in addition to repealing the observious lottery bill. The advisory souncil of fifteen members is meeting frequently, but matters are generally held in abeyance until the commissioners at Washington can be heard from. The government, he said, had sufficient power to quell any revolution that might have broken out without the landing of troops from the U.S.S. Boston.

THE OUREN TALKS.

The deposed Queen still lives quietly at her residence here. She has stead fastly refused to receive any newspape fastly refused to receive any newspaper representatives, or express any views upon the present situation. Yesterday, however, she received an Associated Press representative and offered the following comment: "It is not Americans who are making this trouble, but those who received lands and sustenance from the Hawaiians, who are Hawaiians partly themselves, but who are now hanging between heaven and hell, and if they obtained their deserts would be in the same condition thot would be in the same condition that Beelzebub and his followers were."

Relative to the charge that she still believed in the practice of Kahunaism, or fetish worship, she said:
"Such a charge is a poor reflection upon those who educated me in my youth and is also an unjust reflection upon those who, like the Queen of England received me as a guest, and whose houses of worship I have attended. She further declared that her attend ance at various churches in Honolul had always been favorably commented upon, and contributions had been given for the advancement of the Christian religion.

AMERICAN PROTECTION.

The flag over the government building was raised a week ago Wednesday by the provisional government and Minis ter Stevens, and as the supporters of that government were not fully organ ized it was deemed best that some r resentation of American protection made. The flag was saluted by the Boston's guns. President Dole of the provisional government boarded the Boston two days later and was received with a salute of twenty-one gans. The flag was raised about noon, an hour be-fore the departure of Prince David and Mr. Neumann on the Australia.

MINISTER STEVENS DECLINES TO TALK. United States Minister Stevens greeted the Associated Press representative cordially, but said his official po sition prevented him from discussing the situation. There had been no dis-turbance and he was well satisfied with the conduct of the natives. President Dole also stated that matters were progressing satisfactorily with the new government, and there had been no ex-citement or demonstration of any kind. According to his view, the English business interests of the islands preferred that Kaiulani should rule, but they would not object to an American protectorate back of her. The American residents, of course, are for an-nexation. While the American flag waves over the government building the Hawaiian flag is still floating over all other government property. THE DEBT OF HAWAII.

The Commercial Advertiser, which is the representative of American sentiment, speaks in high commendation of the manner in which the commander of the Boston and Minister Stevens have conducted their part in the affairs of the islands. Mr. Logan, editor of the Bulletin which represents more properly the English interests than those of the late government, in an interview, denied that there was any strong feeling against American annexation. The business interests of the islands were first to be considered, and the late government had not always been conductive of those interests. Regarding the Hawaiian national debt of between $$,000,000 and $4,000,000, and of which $900,000 is due in England, $700,000 is n postoffice bonds and about $1,800,000 in local banks and business firms, and which had beer borrowed by the government for the construction of public works, Logan said the United States would probably not hesitate to assume the debt. He thought, however, that the commissioners sent by the deposed Queen should be granted a hearing.

The Sundry Civil Bill occupied the Senate most of the time today. The amendment discussed yesterday, the effect of which is to continue in effect the law for Federal supervisors of elections, was carried by a party vote, as stated above.

The question as to the issue of 3 per cent. bonds to maintain the gold re serve was precipitated on the Senate in an amendment by Mr. Sherman. Mr Stewart raised the point of order against it, but it was overruled. It was appealed, and the appeal was laid on the table-28 to 18.

The merits of the amendment were dis-cussed for the rema inder of theday. In the course of the discussion Mr. Stewart said there was no necessity to sell bonds and buy coin. There was plenty in the treasury. There was over $600,000, 000 silver coin and bullion in the treas ury and $108,000,000 gold, thus making over $700,000,000 of coin, or what might be converted into coin. New York, Feb. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] Charley Mitchell, the Fnglish pugilist, met William A. THE closing down of the Cour d'Alene silver mines because the product at present prices does not justify their operation is but the forerunner of what will happen in every silver-producing State if bi-metalism is not restored by proper legislation. If silver is to be reduced to the basis of a commodity few silver mines in the country will pay for working.

Colorado proposes to come to the assistance of the United States in the matter of sustaining the value of silver. A bill has been introduced in the Legislature authorizing the purchase, by the State, of all the gold and silver bullion produced within its borders. Bonds are to be issued therefor, and the bullion is bill is adopted, and the bonds are to bear interest, the scheme is likely to bankrupt the State.

A CORRESPONDENT writes that ex-Gov. Thaver of Nebraska is not in straitened circumstances, and dependent on a friend for support, as was stated in a paragraph last week. The writer savs that the ex-Governor is possessed of adundant means, having investments in Lincoln, Neb., property and large land interests in Texas. He resides with an old friend, Adam Bax, as a matter of choice, because his own home was broken up by the death of his wife.

A SYRACUSE court has settled the question that kissing a woman against her will is in no respect a part of taking the census of the United States of America. Mrs. Samuel Wilson of Skaneateles brought suit against John T. taking a kiss as well as the census, and a Syracuse jury has just awarded her $250. The award is none too large. It is proper to keep the public business entirely separated from purely private enterprises.

Some New York physicians have commenced another campaign against the common practice of kissing among women. They hold that it is a fruitful cause of disease in transmitting bacilli and other ugly things. It is all right to stop promiscuous kissing among women, but the discriminating and selective kind which obtains between women and en ought not to be interfered with. And, as a matter of fact, we believe that all the doctors in the country can't stop it. Besides, there is not a bacillus in it, anyway.

It is reported that the Temescal tin mine, whose English stockholders were so successfully worked by the manage ment last year, has fallen into the hands of the Sheriff of San Bernardino More's the pity. We were all deluded into the idea that this was a legitimate industry of great value to Southern California and to the country generally. It will now be difficult to ake those mulcted stockholders be lieve that Southern California is not a nowling wilderness and an unmitigated swindle from one end to the other.

Mr. GRANDMOGIN, the young French sculptor who has taken up his residence in this city, has devoted his spare time to modeling a small design for a fountain which he expects to bring be fore the proper city authorities, and, if it meets their approval, he hopes to get order to erect it in one of the publ parks. The South in Rebellion and Anarchy It is an incontestible fact, and we might as well recognize it now as at some later time, that the extreme Southern States of the Union are in a more dangerous state of rebellion than they were before the war. Their defection is more dangerous because it is more successful, and it is allowed to pass almost unnoticed by the General Government and the people of the country. They are not defying the Nation in open revolt, but they have already defied and set aside the fourteenth and fifteen amendments to the Constitution, disfranchising the great mass of negro voters. They are overriding local laws that provide for the protection of life and property, and have precipitated an era of terrorism and absolute anarchy which the people of the North hardly dream of. to be held at its mining value. If the are not attacking the camps and fortresses of the Union, but, to their way of thinking, they have accomplished a great deal more, for the political party which they support and help to dominate has captured the whole machinery of government. The frequent acts of outlawry and fiendishness which startle the country are but surface indications of the utter abandonment of constitutional rights and the subversion of law which obtains through a considerable portion of the extreme South. Some of the Northern papers of the Democratic faith attempt to pooh-pooh the idea that there is any great social turmoil in the Southern States, holding that most of the people there are as law-abiding as anywhere else, and that the lawless exhibitions are but transitory outbursts of the rougher element. . They make the mis-> thing before them in most of the rural districts. It is reported that in some of the out lying portions of Georgia "White Caps" have been terrorizing negroes, selecting as their victims the most industrious and innoffensive. So intolerable have these persecutions become that in one county the reputable white citizens have resolved to take measures to protect their law-abiding colored neighbors. Gov. Northen has been appealed to to offer a reward for the capture of these desperadoes, and to furnish special counsel to prosecute them in that the rougher element are in the ascendant, and are really carrying every-

take of failing to recognize the fact!

the local courts. This is but a faint intimation of the state of affairs that really exists in Georgia and neighboring States. Judge Albion W. Tourgee recently published in the Chicago Inter Ocean a searching review of the social condition of the extreme South which is calculated to open the eyes of the people of the Nation. Judge Tourgee says: . A study of Southern conditions at this A study of Southern conditions at this time is very instructive. This does not depend on the fact that the number of colored men lynched during the month of January is greater than it has been for many years, though this is a fact that ought not to be forgotten, but because Southern violence has shown it. cause Southern violence has shown itself in a new form, to wit, in driving out colored laborers from some sections, and in burning the buildings and driving off the tenants and employés of plantation owners. These tendencies seem to have shown themselves most actively in certain parishes of Louis-iana, from which several hundred col-ored laborers have been driven on the plea that they were becoming too well educated and too independent. Also in some other parishes on the ground that they were depriving white laborers of employment. mployment. In the counties of Amite, Franklin, Incolp and Pike, of Mississippi, cer-ain organizations known as "White tain organizations known as "White Caps" are, according to the Governor of that State, "disturbing peaceful and law-abiding citizens at their homes, threatening violence, committing arson and even murder," wherefore the Governor, because as he says, "the poor and helpless are entitled to the protection of the law," offers the astounding "reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of each and every one guilty of any of the crimes mentioned!"

This is probably the most stupendons joke ever perpetrated by the unrivaled body of jesters, the governors of Southern States, in the solemn guise of a proclamation. The Governor knew justas well as he knows what kind of tobacco he was chewing when he is far as the arrest and conviction of the far as the arrest and conviction of the parties is concerned. He knew that the life of any one who should even give information against these men would not be worth a pin's fee. And more than that, he knew that the proclamation was not intended for the "protection" of "the poor and helpless," but to stop the clamor of the rich. should even t these men tee. And

What are the facts? In these counties one firm of what are known as "Jews" in that section, where the word embraces any one who makes advances to planters for the support of their hands and cultivation of their crops, have become the owners of perhaps the larger part of the farms by foreclosure of the mortgages they held, after all hope of payment by the mortgagors had failed. It is said that a single firm has something like five hundred planta-tions. In some cases the foreclosure had occurred several seasons before, and the former owners had been living upon them as superintendents or over-seers for the new proprietors. This arrangement did not generally prove profitable, as it naturally would not. A man whose incapacity had eaten up his own plantation would not be likely to his own plantation would not be likely to run it profitably for another. The new owners, therefore, adopted the common-sense method of putting their own tenants or employés on the plantations, in-stead of allowing the former proprie-tors to act as middlemen for them, charging commissions both ways for do ing nothing.

Thereupon, the "White Caps," which is simply a politer name for the modern Kuklux, started in to drive off these tenants, burn the plantation buildings, putting up notices in red ink to the fol-lowing effect:

THIS PLACE IS NOT FOR SALE OR RENT, BUT WILL BE USED HEREAFTER AS A COMMON PAS-

ANY MAN BUYING OR RENTING THIS PLANTATION OR ANY PART OF IT WILL DO SO AT HIS PERIL:

In the counties named a single firm Hiller & Co., have had twenty-seven houses burned and $50,000 worth of property destroyed within the last two nonths, according to the published reports.

These acts of violence are professedly directed against the "Jews." They are in fact, directed against the owners of plantations who rent farms to tenants.

or are large employers of labor, es-pecially colored labor.

In Neshoba county, according to a dispatch to a New Orleans journal, men "go about the country masked, in the day as well as at night, well armed and organized, to warn negroes that they must quit working for the planters or leave the country. Owners of planta-tions are warned that they must cease employing any labor, white or colored, to work their plantations, and that they will be allowed to cultivate only what they and their families can tend. White Cappers say that the daughters of well-to-do farmers must be forced to take part in the manual work of the plantations, as well as their own wive nd daughters.'

What is the significance of this move-It is simply an indication that the so cial and economic forces generated by slavery are still active and potent, though showing their strength in new directions. Slavery created not only the two classes, master and slave, bu also that strange, incomprehensible, wrong, oppressed, ignorant, unam-bitious, yet strong and resentful class, the non-slaveholding whites, or, in com-mon parlance, the "poor whites" of the South. They far exceed in number the "plantation aristocracy," or slave-hold-ing element, who were the rulers of the South, though they have been hitherto their complacent tools. Hating slavery for the wrong they instinctively felt that it had inflicted upon them, they also hated the negro as the instrument of their degradation. They became the willing instrument of the secession lords because they feared that the abolition of slavery would put slavery would level with the a level the voluntary thugs and assassins who did the bidding of their masters in the reconstruction era. They were the rank and file of the Confederate army, nd furnished, the lower order of the Kuklux organization. They have been officered and led by the "plantation lords," and have had a rare training in contempt and defiance of law. Rebell in lawlessness, in which they have had the leadership, encouragement and pro-tection of the intelligent aristocratic element, who vainly supposed that they thing?

It is hard to presage what such blind, unconscious forces will do. They are dark. They mean to destroy those who they think have done them harm. Who they think have done them harm. Who they will destroy is uncertain. What they mean to do is probably yet nebu-lous in form, but not doubtful in char-acter. "We mean," said one, writing in justification of these acts, "to put an end to hiring and tenanting; to run every nigger, money-lender and Jew land shark out of the country, and make land cheap enough so that every white man can have a plantation of his own, as he would have had if slavery hadn't brought in the niggers to keep the poor white man down!"

white man down! This is the objective of the "Regu-lators" and "White Caps," as stated by one of their more intelligent leaders. It seems like a big contract, but one must remember that they constitute a majority of the dominant class; the negro has been suppressed, and they have been trained by slavery, by rebellion, by kukluxism, by ballot-box stuffing, to defy and contemn the law. They know they cannot be punished, and are just beginning to realize what power and license mean.

As WILL be seen in THE TIMES dispatches this morning, the State Supreme Court has decided adversely to Los Angeles county in its suit against Orange county for the recovery of certain moneys advanced by the former to the latter county. The decision is in effect that as the Legislature has the power to divide a county, it has equally the power to di-vide its public funds, and that as the case at issue involved the division of Los Angeles county, the new county of Orange being a segregated portion thereof, was entitled to the money awarded it.

Appropos of the pending trial of a San Pedro matron on the charge of being a common scold, it is worthy of note that a New Jersey virago has recently been fined $10 for the same offense. Are we coming around to the old ducking-steel panishments!

eginning to work in the systems of some of the Democratic war horses. Congressman Bland of Missouri, one of the oldest Democrats in point of service in the House of Representatives. thus read the riot act to his party in speech which he delivered last week:

when the Democratic party went before the people it said that the silver question was nothing in comparison with the tariff question. The latter was the overshadowing, paramount issue which the people had to face. But as soon as the election was over nothing was heard of the Committee on Ways and Means. It had absolutely subsided. "Tariff" has been relegated to the rear. The Democratic party has betrayed every promise made to the American people on the tariff and silver questions, and up to this moment the people have and up to this moment the people have been deceived in the last election.

THE tehor of the proposition submitted to the Governor of Kansas by the Republican House shows that the onus of maintaining the present threatening condition of affairs largely rests upon the Populists. The Republicans are willing to make up agreed cases to go before the Supreme Court for a final de-termination of the question at issue, but the Populist Governor demurs. The indications are that if the dispute is to get the worst of it, so the better part of valor would indicate that the Governor should readily embrace a plan to declare a truce until the legal status can be determined. But he is evidently afraid to submit the case on its merits. That shows that his side is probably in

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

Los Angeles THEATER.-The Swedist T. McAlpine in the title rôle, had a big audience at the Spring street house, and the drolleries of the star and his clever sup-port were received with shrieks of lauguer. Mr. McAlpine is even better than when seen here last season, and is the typical Swede who has "Bane en dees kontry wan Swede who has "Bane en dees kontry wan yere, femt mont end sax wake." The melodramatic portion of the plece exploits two villains, who play it "low down" very well indeed, and receive the final blowing up in a powder-house, as they deserve, amid the thankful plaudits of an indignant populace. Annie Burton plays the rather trying rôle of "Agnes Jordan" in a very sympathetic manner. Dolly Foster McAlpine as "Genie Dimple" quite captured the audience in her plantation melody, as did R. C. Chamberlain in his topical songs. Mr. McAlpine jodels in a most musical manner, and is the peer of any singer of that character on the stage. Lorist, Arnet as "Bridget O'Flannigam" on the gut vice for another husband was excellent. She has a powerful voice and a manner, that is swere forch. ful voice, and a manner that is very fetching. The singing of the National Swedish Lady Quartette was a feature of the entertainment, and the comely young women in the costume of their young women in the costume of their native land were warmly and repeatedly encored. Their rendering of "Suanes Ribber" was especially good. The attraction is one that is deserving of the encomiums and crowded houses it has received all over the country. The same play this afternoon and tanight.

What Makes Year thir Gray?
Gray hair is so common now that one wonders what it comes from. Young men have it in profusion and young women are very proud when they have a coiffure in which gray has a prominent spart. The prevalence of gray hair is attributed to frequent cutting and soap. The doctors speak of inherent tendencies and old women gabble of early piety, but soap and the barber do more toward taking color and strength out of hair than anything else does. The singeing of hair is done to prevent the oils from exuding from the ends of clipped hairs, and singeing it is in this regard better than cutting. But ammonia-loaded soaps are the worst factors. Many persons use ammonia when washing their head, and it was a content of the content of th But ammonia-loaded soaps are the worst factors. Many persons use ammonia when washing their head, and it enters into all shampoo mixtures. It is also an ingredient of most soaps. It dries up the scalp and robs the bair of all its moisture. That is where most of the gray hair of today comes from.

An Old Sweetheart of Blaine's.

An Old Sweetheart of Blains's.

[New York World.]

The town of Washington, Pa., is full of pleasant recollections of James G. Blaine. Everybody called him "Jim" when he was a boy, and they continued to call him by that name after he became famous. Blaine's first sweetheart was one of the prettiest and nicest girls in town. According to general belief she was engaged to be married to young Blaine, but there was some misunderstanding which began at a social intertainment and never ended. Blaine left Washington, Pa., very soon after that, and when he came back he did not call upon his former sweetheart. That was the first intimation that the townspeople had got that the engagement had been broken. The lady is still living. She never married, whether from choice or from a lingering sentiment for her first love, no one knows.

Corinths, Not Currants.

(Exchange)

Zante, the scene of recent earthquakes, is known to the outside world chiefly by its exports of currants, which, by the way, are really not currants, but small raisins, made from a native grape. Corinth was once the chief seat of this export, and these raisins were once called 'Corinths." The name was gradually corrupted to currants, and most persons accept the fruit in good faith for what the name seems to indicate.

SACRAMENTO

The Legislators Surprised by a View of the Sun.

The Unusual Spectacle Almost Causes i Cessation of Business in Both tion-Long John Wilkins.

Special Correspondence of The Times. SACRAMENTO, Feb. 14 .- The sun rose day in real Southern California style, and those members of the Legislature who had almost forgotten whether that uminary was round, square or triangular were recalled to a realization of the fact that Sacramento is still a part of this mundane sphere, and once in a while comes in for a share of the brightest thing in nature. This being the first day since the beginning of the session absolutely without clouds, rain or fog, many members, particularly those who had never attended a previous session, and many who never expect to at-tend a future one, availed themselves of the opportunity to climb the winding staircase leading to the dome of the Capitol and enjoy the glorious view there afforded. There seemed to have been a predetermined line of action agreed upon among the members, as be settled by force the Populists will they made the trip in squads of four or get the worst of it, so the better part five, and when one squad returned, all dust covered and out of breath, another batch was ready to go through the same experience. This was kept up all day, but so systematic were the law-makers in these flights toward heaven that at no time were they missed from their ac-customed stations below. In fact, a cer-tain member from the interior, who enjoys othe double distinction of going through life with one leg and one lung, somewhat grimly suggested that the somewhat grimly suggested that the people at large would ultimately be the gainers, if all the able-bodied men were to go in a bunch and "never come back," thus allowing the physically incapacitated to prove the truth of the theory that it takes brains and not leg and lung power to shape-beneficiallegis-listion. Nothwithstanding all this, the day was a busy one in both houses. One of the first things the Assembly did, was to create and provide a place for "Long John" Wilkins of San Francisco. Mr. Wilkins is a colored patriot of elongated stature, who sports an ngated ulster of ancient pedigree, an immense scarfpin of horseshoe shape, containing as a center the portrait of President-elect Cleveland. In addition to his other accomplish-ments, Mr. Wilkins is credited with a record in legislation. Knowing ones say he has been an attendant at all previous sessions since "the memory of man knoweth not to the contrary House, but so far has failed to have a per diem attached to his illustrious name. This morning, however, he was promoted, and now sports the distiguished title of Watchman to the Engrossing and Enrolling Clerks' rooms. It is a position that he is eminently fitted to fill, and the people, when they pay their taxes next year, will not begrudge the insignificant pro rata they are called upon to pay in order to reward such a faith-ful apostle of recent Democracy. The House Committee of Ways and Means this morning unanimously recommended that the Speaker appoint a mended that the Speaker appoint a select committee of five to investigate the Attorney-General's office. The report was adopted without a dissenting vote, and the Speaker appointed as such committee Dr. W. P. Matthews of Tehama chairman, Mr. Tindell of Mendocino, Mr. Mack of Inyo, Mr. Kahn of San Francisco, and Mr. Lynch of San Bernardino. As these gentlemen are Bernardino. As these gentlemen are all members of the Ways and Means Committee, and are thoroughly in earnest, this investigation promises to be no regulation whitewash affair. Atty.-Gen. William Henry Harrison Hart will be called before the committee, and unless he introduces satisfactory evidence to show why he should not be impeached, will be allowed to make room for a more competent successor.

The Senate Whittier Investigation
Committee will leave for the South next Friday or Saturday. It was the origi-nal intention to start last week, but the floods at Bakerfield caused the delay. The committee has power to call for persons and papers, and the investiga-tion promises to be complete. It was erroneously reported last nig this investigation would be held here, beginning tonight, but it later trans-pired that the Glen Ellen Home for Feeble-minded Children was the one referred to. The Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate is responsible for this misstatement.

The defense in the Johnson case made a fine showing in its opening testimony before the House Investigating Committee. Assemblyman Brownlie of San Francisco assumed entire paternity of the telltale card, and claimed that it was only one of a number that he had marked. He said he had been election-eering for White for Senator, and went to San José to talk to Johnson in reference to White's candidacy. He had previously marked four names of Democratic Assemblymen on this particular card, and, after seeing Johnson, marked the latter's name also. Johnson asked Brownlie for a similar printed card, and Brownlie, having no other, gave John-the San José Democrat, held up to scorp as one of those predicction 6x8 sheets whose principal revenue is derived from party candidates, whose unwillingness is more than equaled by their cowardice. As to Rea himself, the defense so far has shown nothing against his truthfulness. The only mystery now to be cleared up is to show how the marked card passed from Johnson's possession into Rea's, and if Johnson can show clean hands, the committee must find him innocent. As to Rea, in that case it will be but another nall in his comm. The Senate passed the day, mostly,

The Senate passed the day, mostly, with the second reading of bills, but the House again wasted nearly a whole afternoon in discussing a fish and game bill—a measure of little interest to others than sportsmen and dealers.

ABOUT SAN IOSE. And the Style of Her Politicians, Including Jim Res. SACRAMENTO, Feb. 15, 1898.—As the

Johnson investigation progresses, the need of a stringent primary election law becomes more and more apparent. San José is, without doubt, politically speaking, the most corrupt hole in Cal-ifornts, and if the evidence given last night before the House Investigating nittee bears even a shadow truth. Jim Rea is a bigger boss than blind Chris Buckley ever dared to be. Among the witnesses who swore away the reputations of McKenzie, Edwards and Barrington, three satellites of the chief boss, were such men as William

Williamson, for ten years Justice of the Peace in San José; Adam Riehl, ex-As-Peace in San José; Adam Riehl, ex-Assemblyman; Renben Burdette, ex-Councilman of San José; J. Klein, a prominent Republican and attorney-at-law in the gang-ridden city; Dr. George McCracken, at present School Trustee, who has lived in the Garden City forty-two years, and D. C. Bailey, now a Republican Councilman, ex-County Recorder and Auditor, and for eight years postmanter under Republican administration. The testimony of these gen-tlemen, while intended to discredit Rea's witnesses, incidentally ex-posed the rotton condition of the posed the rotton condition of the body politic in Santa Clara county. San José is not only blessed with the Republican and Demowith the kepublican and Demo-cratic parties, but it appears there are reorganizers and purifiers in both, who very sensibly combined at the last elec-tion on a citizens' platform and swept the city. Rea, it would appears, has not only the Republican machine within his grasp, but also exerts a malign influence over the Democratic counterpart. As eternal vigilence is the price of liberty, these reorganizers and purifiers have divested themselves of all political differences, and have made it their cal differences, and have made it their sole object to drive out Rea and his 'gang.' At the last election they succeeded partially, and one of the effects of their efforts is the presence of John-son in the Assembly. Mr. Johnson, it is of their efforts is the presence of Jonuson in the Assembly. Mr. Johnson, it is true, is not a heavyweight, but his opponent was one of the "gang." This was enough for the Republican purifiers—they simply selected the least of two evils. As an instance of how far Rea's corrupt influence extended, it was shown that the last City Council let an electric lighting contract for furnish-ing the city with electric lights for five years to the highest bidder, viz., the San José Electric Improvement Company, Jim Rea's concern. To show that Rea's testimony was false when he said he had no connection with when he said he had no connection with the now famous Major Barrington, M. C. Harris, the proprietor of a printing establishment in San José, was placed establishment in San José, was placed upon the stand. Mr. Harris swore that Barrington wanted him to print the Democrat, but he, Harris, refused unless Barrington paid in advance. Then Barrington brought Edwards, Rea's private secretary, who "stood good" and actually did pay some of Barrington's indebtedness thus incurred. Barrington one day brought with his "copy" a cartoon which Harris considered offensive and refused to phollish until Edwards agreed to shoulder all responsibility in case of a libel suit. The pure and nndecase of a libel suit. The pure and unde-filed editor of the San José Democrat seems to have possessed even enough cial support from the very man whose corrupt methods he bitterly fought in the columns of his 6x8 sheet. In other words, Barrington was simply a tool of the arch-boss, but sailing under false The investigating committee, con-sisting of Messrs. Mordecai, Hurley and Hendricksen, Democrats, and Bulla and Bledsoe, Republicans, is much mended for the strict impart maintained throughout their sessions. By common consent Messrs. Bulla and Bledsoe, of the committee, are most prominent in questioning the witnesses. These two gentlemen are very painstaking in their efforts to arrive at a true solution of the case. They differ somewhat in the method pursued, although both are trained lawyers, but "get these just the same." Mr. Bledsoe is the more persistent while handling a witness, and by the process termed maintained throughout their sessions witness, and by the process termed badgering usually attains his object. Mr. Bulla, on the other hand, displays a higher character of judicial acumen, and elicits his "point" without making the witness feel uncomfortable. Messrs. Mordecai, Hendricksen and Hurley occasionally "chip in," but never in interference with their Republican colleagues.

In the Senate yesterday a joint resoin the Schate vesteraly a joint reso-lution was adopted to adjourn the Leg-islature on March 4. The argument was advanced that the people had em-phatically declared themselves in favor of a sixty days' session, and to carry out that demand there should be no prolongation. It matters not what the state of legislation, sixty days should be the limit. If important measures are lost in this shuffle the Governor has power to call an extra session with all that this implies in the way of per diem to the members. Some members, it is claimed, cannot afford to stay in Sacramento after their salary ceases, and in justice to them this course has been advised. But the House will scarcely concur in this proposition on account of its many investigation . committees. The lower body is thoroughly in earnand will not allow itself to be "choked off" by its bigger brother, unless, possibly, some provision is made to carry on these investigations after the adjournment.

On the other hand, it is claimed that ten days' extra is sufficient to com-plete the entire business, and for the sake of a few days' work, without pay, this Legislature should not mar the general good record it has so far made.

Among those here from Los Angeles county are Messrs. J. A. Thomas, James C. Kayes, John T. Gaffney, Henry Hazard end Charles Silent of the city, and Messrs. McComas, Stein and Gird of Pomona. Riverside and San Bernardino are also well represented. As most of the gentlemen indicated are here on county division matters the atmosphere is becoming a little hot. Stories of boodle on the one side or the other are flying around, but nothing has yet come to the surface to indicate any actual corruption. to adjourn March 4th next, and referred the matter to the Committee on

San Francisco, Cal.—GENTLEMEN: The undersigned are members of the Los Angeles Board of Trade, and would state, in order to give you a correct opinion of the commercial standing of this community, that the members of the Board of Trade, alone represent a capital of $20,000,000.

We take pride in fostering such an enterprise as is hereinafter suggested, in order that we may not be obliged to patronize ports so far distant from us as are those of San Francisco and San Diego.

We understand that the course of your steamers is, or will be through the Santa Barbara Channel, so that it would require but a very slight divergence to enable them to touch at one or more of the ports adjacent to Los Angeles.

The traffic in this section of the country is already large, and is constantly increasing in volume.

It may be superfluous to say that the commerce which makes an entry and finds an outlet at San Diego represents but a

For the above reasons but little, for or from here, finds its way to your steamers; although large quantities of the products of this rich country, of which this city is the commercial center, would readily seek a convenient and near by outlet.

In view of the above, and many other facts which may be enumerated, and which are, doubtless, already apparent to you, we earnestly ask that your vessels on their south-bound trip to Panama, and their north-bound trip to Panama, and their north-bound trip to San Francisco, shall touch at one or more of the ports which are contiguous to this city.

Uncle Pete's Cabin.

Uncle Pete's Cabin.
[Oakland Times.]

Peter Jackson in the rôle of "Uncle Tom" is to be "tried on the dog" of Sonoma county. Why the rustic village of Santa Rosa should have been chosen 'as the initial point of affliction passes our understanding. What crime has that community committed that it should be subjected before Sacramento, Stockton, San Josa Los Angeles or even Oakland to the slobbery spectacle of Bruiser Pete praying beside the couch of "Little Eva" as her angel wings are spreading for flight "beyond the weeping!" Our sympathies are with Santa Rosa just now, but we fear we shall be compelled to recall them when the tear tank drama reaches Oakland.

Would Be Good House Paint. Would Be Good House Paint.

A clever chemist has invented an automatic sensitive paint, which is a bright yellow at the ordinary temperature, but, upon being brought into a warmer atmosphare, it changes color gradually, until at 220° it becomes a bright red. It rejurns to its original color upon cooling, and may be heated with the same effect over and over. It is suggested that this paint may be used with advantage to detect a rise in the temperature of the fractional working parts of machinery.

Called to See Mrs. Bentley—The Housekeeper Tells How the Medicine Was Given.

The preliminary examination of Henry Bentley, charged with murder in polsoning his wife, was begun yesterday in Justice Seamans's court, but owing to the voluminousness of the testimony and the number of important witnesses to examine, it was not finished.

Five witnesses testified yesterday— Will Nordholt, the son of the murdered woman; Clotilde Hancade, the house keeper; Dr. Burnett, who was at the bedside of Mrs. Bentley when she died; Mrs. Ponyfourcat, a daughter, and P.

Mys. Ponyfourcat, a daughter, and P. T. Consins, the undertaker who took charge of the remains.

The evidence adduced was very strong against the accused, especially that of the housekeeper, although certain sensational developments quearthed since the Coroner's inquest, and the expert testimony of the physicians making examination of the several organs of the woman's body, is yet to be introduced. At 9:20 o'clock vesterday morning Jailer Macy and Deputy Wray delivered to the court balliff Henry Bentley, the accused. The courtroom was well filled with spectators, while the attorneys for the State and defense were on hand, as were most of the witnesses, those absent being summoned on subposite.

Justice Seamans formally opened court at 9:30 sharp, when Assistant District Attorney Skinner opened the case by calling the roll of witnesses and placing upon the witness stand Will Nordholt, son of the deceased. WILL NORDHOLT'S TESTIMONY.

Henry Bentley sat back of his attor neys rather careworn in appearance, and noticeably nervous, sitting sideand noticeably nervous, sitting side-ways on the edge of his chair much of the time and frequently casting his eyes backward and sideways by quick, ner-vous movements of the head. When the Nordholt heirs were on the witness stand his manner was that of a hunted animal, and his nervousness became more pronounced and his gaze was riv-ited on the floor.

Will-Nordholt related the circum-stances, so far as he knew, connected with his mother's death, and described the siege of Bentley the night he es-caped from the window, and of the later discovery of the bottle of strychnine in the trunk, the distribution of a portion of the contents of the bottle and the uscovery of the bottle of strychnine in the trunk, the distribution of a portion of the contents of the bottle and the subsequent disposition of it.

Nordholt gave his testimony in a quiet, self-possessed manner, and no subterfuge used in the lengthy cross-examination could secure a distortion of any item deposed. The story was clean cut and natural in its delivery, and peculiarly free of speculation.

"The last time I saw mother alive was the evening before she died. That same morning, when I came down stairs, at 6 o'clock, my mother and I exchanged the compliments of New Year, and she requested me in a gay tone to be home for dinner, promising a hearty one. I drove to my sister's, in the country, where I had breakfast, and when returning, and at the corner of Fourth and Spring streets, Mr. Bentley halled me, and upon my stopping informed me of the serious illness of my mother, requesting me at the same time to take the gentlemen that was with nother, requesting me at the same time to take the gentlemen that was with him, whom he introduced as a physician, him, whom he introduced as a physician, and drive home as quick as possible. This I did. The doctor, a Dr. Burnett. went into the house immediately, and I followed as soon as I could hitch my horse. When I entered mother's room they told me she was dead. I went to the foot of the bed and looked at her, but I followed to remain but I felt too bad to remain, as I could do nothing. I went out to look for Mr. Bentley, but he was nowhere to be seen, so, hardly out to look for Mr. Bentley, but he was nowhere to be seen, so, hardly appreciating what I was doing. I was so worked up, I went to the undertakers and left word to have some one sent down to take charge of the body. I then returned home and went into the house, but Mr. Bentley was not there. I found him a while later at the barn, washing a buggy. I felt disgusted at this, but said nothing, consulting him as to the burial of mother.

"Mr. Bentley asked me if the doctor had given a death certificate. Later, when he was informed that Dr. de Szigethy had given a certificate, he seemed much relieved, remarking, 'that is good; very good.' I did not appreciate the expression at the time, or his seeming cheerfulness, as I had no suspicious of foul play until afterward.

"I was with Sheriff Cline and Detective Lawson and aides when they went to the house on Seventh and Wall streets to arrest Bentley, and went in with the posse when they forced an entrance. I saw where Bently escaped from the window of the room where my mother died—the same room in which the poison was found later—saw Bentley's foofprints where he jumped from the window to the ground, then over the fence.

"I was still at the house with Sheriff."

over the fence.
"I was still at the house with Sheriff "I was still at the house with Sheriff Cline and Mr. Lawson when one Hayford, who had acted as attorney for my mother in some transactions, and for Mr. Bentley since mother's deeth, came to the house and insisted on being allowed in the house, and demanded evacuation by the officers, saying, in explanation of the demand. I have an irrevocable power of attorney for this property, and have been living here for the past month.' I left with Mr. Lawson, leaving Mr. Cline and the attorney together.

the past month.' Heft with Mr. Lawson, leaving Mr. Cline and the attorney together.

O'I was with the Public Administrator when that official was taking an inventory of the contents of the house. This same attorney, Hayford, was also there. I was present when the trunk in my mother's bedroom was opened, and standing beside Hayford when he pleked up the satchel, and, opening it, took out the vial which proved to contain strychnine.

"How do I know the bottle contained strychnine! For the very good reason that several portions of the contents of the bottle were distributed among those present, and the portion I had, when analyzed, proved to be strychnine. I went to the notary public's office, together with Public Administrator Kelsey and Hayford, the latter earrying the satchel, into which the bottle of poison was replaced, when I witnessed the sealing up of the satchel, which I recognize as the one exhibited."

The cross-examination of the witness could not change the meaning of a word or expression. Northelt's story was told with not the slightest ostentiatation and as quietly as earnestly.

What Dr. Burnett Saw When He Was the housekeeper, was given in a straightforward, unassuming manner, and was undoubtedly the most important adduced yesterday. Although every effort was made to break her down by cross-questioning, failure was met on each attack, for "Clottide kept her head," as an acquaintance said of her afterward.

Clottide Hancade, according to her evidence, is 19 years of age, a native of France, and resident of this country one year. She speaks little or no Emilish, having been employed as house-keeper in Spanish families, speaking that language to the interpreter.

The young moman's story was exactly as it was given at the Coroner's inquest, but is so starfling, in connection with other features of the case since developed, that its substance is again given.

developed, that its substance is again given.

As to the medicine Bentley persistently administered to his wife the housekeeper said: "Medicine was given Mrs. Bentley by her husband three times a day. There were two kinds; a liquid, the color of coffee, and a crystallized substance, white in color and in form and appearance like salt. The latter was dissolved in whiter, a spoonful of the substance to a part of a glass of water. The other medicine was also given by diluting in water. Mrs. Bentley would beg her husband not to give her the medicine, and sometimes become very angry, but Bentley would invariably overcome her by petting and kissing her into submission or else while in the act would place his arm around his wife's neck and suddenly force her to take it, all the while petting her. Mrs. Bentley had often denly force her to take it, all the while petting her. Mrs. Bentley had often said to Bentley to 'take the medicine away—I won't take it—you are trying to kill me,' and other times accusing him of 'knowing' he was 'slowly poisoning' her with the medicine."

The woman told how she had hunted for the medicine at Mrs. Bentley's request, but without avail, as Bentley carried it in his inside vest pocket, from whence he would invariably take it when ready to give it to his wife. The wife and the housekeeper both knew this, but thought it possible that he hid it some place else after leaving the room, but they never were able to locate it.

room, but they never were able to locate it.

On one occasion Mrs. Bentley had insisted that the girl should get a glimpse at the label, and, failing, should ask Bentley what sort of medicine it was and if a doctor's prescription. Bentley always held his hand over the label of the bottle containing, the white substance; the other bottle had no label. When the housekeeper asked Bentley as to the contents of the bottle, she was informed that he needed no insistence or assistance—to tell Mrs. Bentley it was good for her.

"When I came down stairs, at 6:30 o'clock that morning," said the housekeeper, indicating the morning Mrs. Bentley died, "Mrs Bentley called from her room, asking me in a cheerful voice what I was to have for breakfast. An hour and a half later Mr. Bentley came into the kitchen where I was at work what I was to have for breakfast. An hour and a half later Mr. Bentley came into the kitchen where I was at work and informed me that Mrs. Bentley was very sick. I went into the room and saw Mrs Bentley lying on her back, her eyes set, her tongue back, her jaws fast closed, her arms drawn up thus [indicating them doubled up] and frothing at the mouth and groaning. I told Mr. Bentley to raise her head up, that she had a convulsion—she always had cramps in her stomach and felt depressed after taking of the medicine—but Mr. Bentley said [flourishing her hand and shrugging her shoulders to indicate the manner he delivered himself]: 'She's dying—don't you see she's dying! Let her be.' But I raised her head and told him to go for a doctor, instead of me, if he would do nothing for his wife.

"Mrs. Ponyfourcat and Mrs. Watson came a short time afterward and we all rubbed Mrs. Bentley's hands, which were very stiff.
"Mr. Bently went after the doctor after this and did not return until about 10 o'clock in the morning, and then he did not remain. He refused me permission to attend the foneral asyling when sion to attend the funeral, saying, when I expostulated, 'I pay you; you stay and mind the house.' I staid there eight days after Mrs. Bentley died."

DR. BURNETT'S EVIDENCE. Dr. Burnett, who attended the man, was then placed on the stand, and corroborated the testimony of the housekeeper as to the condition and appearance of the woman. "I was called up by telephone," explained Dr. Burnett, "from Off & Vaughan's drug store, where I went as Vaughan's drug store, where I went as soon as I could finish dressing. her eyes, wide open and staring, the pupils dilated, and the features and muscles distorted, indicated intense suffering. Frothy mucus was issuing from the mouth. There was no appreciable indication of life from wrist pulsation, and after removing, with considerable dimculty, one of her arms, in order to place my ear to her side, there were a few fluttering pulsations of her heart and then a sudden stopping, life becoming extinct, and with a last gasp the features, instead of relaxing, set more dirmly.

"I made no examination of the body, as I was told that the woman was subject to heart disease, and that there was a regular physician attending her, who had been sent for.

"No, I had no particular suspicions at the time, although the case was a peculiar one."

As to the medical education and practice of the doctor, his explanations were satisfactory.

what the DAUGHTER SAW. Marie Antonia Ponyfourcat, the laughter of the deceased, showed de cided nervousness and considerable petulancy, at times refusing to answer questions until coaxed into so doing. She wanted to speak Spanish, although admitting she could speak English all right—when she "wanted to." Considerable amusement was created by the snappy roastings she gave Mr. Goodrich, who conducted the examinations for the defense but even the audience from, who conducted the examinations for the defense, but even the audience tired of her petulancy after awhile.

Mrs. Ponyfourcat's testimony was simply as to her attendance on her mother in answer to Bentley's calling her; the appearance of Mrs. Bentley and her actions, which did not differ from that of other witnesses on these from that of other witnesses on those points.

Mrs. Ponyfourcat testified that Bentley came in only for a moment after his wife's death, and that an hour after the occurrance, and she thought he seemed not to feel very bad over the affair.

THE UNDERTAKER'S STATEMENT. P. T. Cussens, the undertaker, ex-plained his offices in embalming and interring the body of Mrs. Bentley. I was at the instance of Will Nordholt that he took charge of the body, but the prisoner, Henry Bentley, had called on him several times during the day he was at work, each time urging him to "take the best care of the body," explaining that his wife had been affected with dropsy, and that he "knew of at plaining that his wife had been affected with dropsy, and that he "knew of at least one case of dropsy where during its preparation for burial the carpets of the room in which the corpse was laid out were spoiled." The explanation, while seeming silly, was accepted as coming from a grief-stricken husband, hence not regarded seriously.

Mr. Cusseus testified to the extreme rigidity of the body, and repeated a remark made by him to his partner while rigidity of the body, and repeated a remark made by him to his partner while at work, that "The corpse must have been lifeless for some hours to be in such a condition," regarding the difficulty experienced in straightening out the limbs, preparatory to dressing.

Mr. Cusseus attested to his having had charge of several hundred bodies since he had been in the business, and in cases where he had received the bodies before rigor morits had set in—such les before rigor mortis had set in—such cases numbering probably two hundred— it had taken from five to twelve hours for that condition to be reached; while in this case, from evidence adduced by every witness seeing the woman on that morning proved that rigor mortis was simultaneous, or nearly so, with death

Considerable cross-questioning did not change these facts brought out, but rather strengthened them. The furrather strengthened them. The further fact that frothy mucus continued to show from mouth and nostrils even after embalming was bronght out in the cross-questioning. There was nothing presented to arouse his suspicions, Mr. Cussens said, as he was told there had been a physician in attendance, which he learned later from the family physician, Dr. de Szigethy, who pronounced death as being caused by heart disease, and the death certificate he made out and presented to that doctor for his signature was in conformity with that information.

TODAY'S TESTIMONY. The case rested here for the day, to be continued this morning at 9:30 O'clock, when the expert testimony of Drs. Wernigk, Hughes, Bridge and Kannon and Chemist Forrest Hance, who have made thorough examinations of the heart, liver, brain, kidneys and stomach of the woman, will be heard.

The burden of this testimony will be the proving that the organs of the woman were sound and healthy, and that death came from the administering of position.

parillas is this: Every other Sarsaparilla we know of contains potash. It is well-known that pet-ash taken internally cau-ses cruptions upon the face and neck. You have doubtless taken a Sarsaskin. Unless you took Joy's you were surprised to find that it actually created more cruptions That was simply the action of the potash. Now Joy's being the latest avoids potash. Thus when taken to relieve pimples it actually dissipates them. It is the only Sarsaparilla that cleaness clearance of sightly, saleable, and in many cases, staple woolens.

A dose of Spring medicine is good for things inanimate as well as animate. Well, that's what we're doing: toning up our stock, besides we want to tickle competitors.

New York Stocks.

New York, Feb. 17.—The stock market today was remarkable for the volume of business, width of fluctuations and rather eutral result of the day's doings. The bears made vigorous drives against Read-ing and leading industrials, but, after all, at the close, only Reading, New England and Cordage showed any marked loss. While there were some important gains in the general railroad list, the changes were about equal betweens gains and losses of

But the company has trouble—some members who are a trouble to everything in which they engage, and they have become small enough to try to have Mr. Marshall removed by appealing a lot of stuff to E. The company is entirely able to judge of its elections.

The World's Fair Display to Be Exhibited in Santa Ana.

Citizens to Be Given an Opportunity to View the Exhibit Before It is Sent to Chicago-Brilliant Society Event-Personals,

After considering and reconsidering the matter several times, the Orange County World's Fair Association and the persons directly interested in the Orange county World's Fair exhibit have at last concluded to exhibit the display of vegetables, fruits, nuts, etc., here before the entire display is packed and shipped to Chicago. This is the proper step to take, and it should have been taken several weeks ago. There was a called meeting of the directors of the as sociation yesterday afternoon for the pur-pose of determining upon the matter of placing the products on exhibition for a week or more, and after considerable dis-cussion the following resolution was adopted:

That the products of Orange county be

That the products of Orange county be placed upon exhibition as soon as practicable for one week at No. 423 North Main street, in the Lacy Block, and that the matter of preparing the exhibition and overseeing the same be placed in the hands of the superintendent, J. C. Joplin.

The work of getting the exhibit in place in the Lacy Block will begin today, and will be pushed along as rapidly as possible. It will perhaps be only a few days until the display will be ready for the public, and then every resident of Orange county should not miss the opportunity of seeing it. It is well worth seeing, and is a credit to the little joker county of Orange.

The TIMES reporter ascertained yesterday from E. B. Gifford, the San Diego horseman who is here with a fine string of horses to train over the Santa Ana track, that in all probability several other strings of horses are likely to be here during the working season. I have heard a number of horsemen discussing the matter, but I do not think they have decided yet definitely just what they will do. "Yes, I will begin training my horses very soon now," said the San Diego gentleman. "Alta Rena, who trotted here on your track last year as a two-year-old, and Richelieu. will begin jogging now in a few days, and then atto Rex may be brought out after awhile. Oh, yes, sir; from the way the 'thing looks now, I think we will have, some fun on the Santa Ana track this fall. I am very glad that Mr. Willits has concluded to put Silkwood on the track again this year for a record. If he works him out here on the Santa Ana track, and I presume he will, it will be the means of creating a great deal of interest locally in legitimate horse-fracing.

TUSTIN.

Last Sabbath morning a cloud of gloom was cast over the First Tustin Company of the Boys' Brigade by the startling announcement that Horace J. Snow, second sergeant, was dying. He was one of the prominent members of the company, and for many reasons his death has produced a profound impression upon his comrades and the community at large. His brief illness no one thought to be fatal until a few hours before his decease. Just two weeks before, January 29, he had been present at all the services of the Presbyterian Church, and in the evening, at the special mission ary service conducted by the brigade, he had taken his part as cornetist of the company's orchestra. He was born at Vallejo. Cal., April 23, 1875, but spent most of his life at Tustin, dying in his eighteenth year. The funeral took place at his father's residence Wednesday at 2 p.m. The company marched in and stood in double rank by the side of the casket during the services, which were conducted by the captain, Rev. J. P. Stoops. Upon the glass plate of the casket lay the brigade cap of the deceased, and the foral monogram "B. B." on the body of the castet, and beneath it was a great profusion of beautiful floral em-

The two lieutenants, two of the sergeants and two of the corporals were the pall-bearers, while the whole company acted as military escort, preceding the hearse to the cemetery. The company drawing up in line, which extended from the house to the driveway, and presenting arms as the casket was borne along their front to the hearse, was a most impressive and solemn scene; not less so the farewell salute of three volleys, fired over the closed grave, followed by the bugler's taps, softly sounded, announcing to all that their comrade's day of life had ended and light of life gone out.

At a called meeting of the company suitable resolutions were passed.

A report advising a material reduction of the present water rates throughout the city invoked a remonstrance from Judge Canfield, on behalf of the water company, and action in the matter was postponed to the next meeting.

Plans for a change of grade on lower Chapala street were submitted by City Engineer Rarrington, and the City Attorney was instructed to draft suitable resolutions toward this change, which were subsequently adopted.

An extension of fifty days was granted Contractor Walker to complete his paving contract on the Boulevard, and Contractor Lehman received an extension of thirty days on his contract for laying a sewer on Santa Barbara street. These concessions were rendered necessary by the undue severity and continuance of recent rains.

The Council granted the petition of George S. Streator, who asks to be permitted to put up a building adjacent to the Boulevard Garden, where temperance beverages will be sold. The motion granting this petition settles a vexed question, and to the satisfaction of some of our best citizens, for it specifies that the permission will be forfeited if any intoxicating drinks are sold. As the visitors had the drop on them, there was nothing to do save obey. While these bold, bad men were thus relieving the finocents of their hard-earned cash, another appeared, evidently with the intention of bucking the tiger, and was told to elevate his hands and take his place beside the others, which he did with alacrity, out of respect for the pointer looking his way. The robbers took nothing but money, and it took them but a few seconds to do it. They then backed out of the room, ran up Court alley to Court street, south to E, and north on E street. As soon as it was realized that the robbers were out of the room some of the men gave chase, and began firing upon the disappearing figures, some twenty shots being fired. It is rumored that a hackman was compelled to take his seat inside his carriage while they drove to the outskirts of the city, but this could not be verified. Another theory is that they ran across dooryard strough the city, avoiding the streets, as $29 was found fin one yard yesterday morning, which is thought to have dropped from one of their pockets when climbing a fence. Last Month

We sold on the Pacific Coast over 70,000 cans of Cleveland's baking powder, that means Cleveland's baking powder has tens of thousands of friends where a year ago it was hardly known, and to-day no baking powder is growing so rapidly in public favor.

This has been done not by attacking others in the same business or by publishing scurrilous notices in the newspapers at so much a line or by mere advertising (for competitors have spent money lavishly in advertising against us), but by the true merit and value of the article itself.

We believe that our present business is simply an earnest of good things to come, for every thrifty housewife who once uses Cleveland's baking powder is sure to keep on using it, and sooner or later will recommend it to her friends.

Cleveland Baking Powder Co., New York. P. S. In using Cleveland's baking powder, be sure to remember that it is ser than others and less of it is required for the same baking. For the best s, a rounded teaspoonful does as much as a heaping teaspoonful of others.

TELEPHONE No. 1163.

We desire to interest you in the wares that we sell peculiar to yourselves. In asking an inspection of our stock and the bestowal of a portion of your patronage upon us, we advance the following argument:

We claim to sell the best merchandise that can be bought at the lowest possible prices consistent with existence; are large consumars of merchandise, using large quantities in Los-Angeles, and double that quantity in San Francisco, besides buying in larger quantities to supply parties with whom we are directly connected. In this way we are in a position to handle larger amounts of merchandise than any single individual in Los Angeles. Quantity regulates price; therefore we contend that the identical article can be sold cheaper by us than elsewhere.

Our business is systematized so that we ask a smaller proportionate profit than others; the goods are marked by a gentleman who is not connected with the firm, has no interest therein, and solely upon a percentage basis. We contend that our business is conducted more in the nature of a commission, and at a more uniform percentage, than any other merchant in Log Angeles. We keep the very best goods that are manufactured, and the more that you become acquainted with us the better you will like us. We make a specialty of Shirts, Blouses, Jumpers and Jackets for engineers, firemen, mechanics and laborers. The part of the person are put up for us under our own name, manufactured by the very best concerns of the kind in the United States, and sold to you with a guarantee that if they rip with reasonable wear, we will refund the money. We want to cultivate your trade by giving you more and better than any one else will for a like amount of money.

SHOES.

When a man has a good thing and he is satisfied of it, it is a very easy matter to impress others with his conviction. When it comes to ladies' and men's shoes we are right in it, both for quality and for price. We have weeded out of our stock every pair of shoes that was not a prime value, and every pair that you buy from us we guarantee to give satisfactory wear; if they do not we refund the money or give you another pair. This certainly is the safest place to trade in Los Angeles. No one can say that during our business existence they were ever denied their money for an article that they had purchased and returned or sold an article proving unsatisfactory that a sufficient recompense was not made in lieu of the shortcoming.

Our shoes are made by the very best manufacturers in the country. They are put up under our own name. We are making a reputation for our goods in every department, and selling them under our own name and not that of the manufacturer. If you are pleased with the style, the fit and the price, we will guarantee the rest. We want to sell you shoes because we save you money and give you as good if not better than any one else.

In the line of men's shoes there is nothing better made than Hanan & Son's and Lilly, Brackett & Co.'s, and we are selling these goods at the present time at what they cost us, having too many on hand.

In the line of ladies' and children's shoes you are guaranteed that everything is satisfactory, and you are buying the vest value for the money in this town.

Boys'Clothing

We have a little Bijon of a department encased on all sides so that it is entirely separate and distinct from the main store. Here mothers can come in with their little boys, seat themselves comfortably, and have the clothes tried on the little fellows to their entire satisfaction.

have the clothes tried on the little fellows to their entire satisfaction.

Of course you know that the larger the business the smaller the profits, the greater the sales, and that in the aggregate there is more profit made than in doing half the volume of business and charging double the amount of profit.

The PEOPLE'S STORE is no longer the PEOPLE'S STORE it was a few years ago. It is doing business on broader principles. The tendency is upward and onward, bettering the classes of merchandise until they have reached the acme of perfection.

The present management falls to see why the PEOPLE'S STORE trannot sell just as good an article as is manufactured, and proposes to sell the same. This department claims your patronage because it thinks it can sell you as good, if not a little better, article for less money than anyone else,

Men's Hats.

Some people have a prejudice about coming into a department store to buy a hat. Well, the exclusive hatter can only sell a good hat, and charges you a good, stiff price for it because that is all he has to sell. There is no law on the statute books that prevents us from buying good hats and selling them at the same proportionate profit that we do anything else. In this world we have to rely upon promises and warrantles. Now we have been here twelve years, have grown from insignificance to our present proportions, occupy a somewhat responsible position in the community, and our guarantee ought to be as good as any in this town. We carry Stetson & Co.'s hats, and the only difference in the hat is that we sell it from 50c to $1 less than the exclusive hatter. Our hats are made for us and not bought from the jobber. We guarantee every hat we sell to give satisfaction, and if it does not your money is at your disposal. There is not a house in the United States that does business under a more liberal basis. We will exchange anything, give you back your money, and do everything in our power to retain your good will and patronage. We want to create a little more enthusiasm with the gentlemen of this town in our various exclusive male departments. A little assistance on your part will encourage us to go ahead and enlarge the various stocks that we carry for you, and result greatly in your favor by purchasing from us what you do at exclusive furnishers' at a very great saving.

To the Ladies.

It will be of interest to you to come into our stores every day whether you are in want of anything or not. We are opening hundreds of cases of new goods. The styles and qualities will please you, and the prices will induce you to invest.

Yesterday's arrivals included a choice line of printed silks marked at 50c a yard; also light and dark flannelettes—over 200 pieces—and some new all-wool dress goods in solid shades.

HOUSE AND LOT.

Indisputable Signs of a Real Estate Advance.

Heavy Investments by Eastern Capitalists in Los Angeles.

Mr. Cudahy Pays $196,000 Cash for the Nadeau Tract.

A Bank to Go on the Corner of Main First-Probably a Large Warehouse Adjoining-A Bankers' Colony. Building Notes.

The past week has been an eventful one in real estate circles. Even the most conservative now admit something much resembling the forewarning of another real estate boom is in the air. Los Angeles appears to be destined to sustain periodical attacks of this character, and citizens will doubtless bear up under the infliction with great fortitude, not to say cheerfulness and sang froid. The judicious will, however, on this occasion, combine to so tame the ferocity of the animal just emerging from his lair that his on-slaught may not be followed by such ill effects as were witnessed five years ago. In time, no doubt, local land astronomers will be able to calculate the periodicity of these visitations with as great accuracy as the star sharps predict the arrival of a comet. There are those, however, who believe that from now on the Los Angeles boom will partake of the planetary character, and be always with us. In that case, we shall have to make the best of it.

THE CENTER OF ACTIVITY. It appears probable that on this occasion the revival of interest in real estate will be more closely centered in Los Angeles city than before, although surrounding sections and towns will, of course, share to a greater or less ex-tent in the light reflected from the central luminary. A number of sedate and careful Eastern capitalists have evidently arrived at the conclusion that Los Angeles is destined, in the not very distant future, to become a large, prob-ably a very large, city, and they are beginning to show their faith by their works, in the line of investment, in a manner which is as gratifying to local pride as it must prove profitable to these enterprising gentlemen.

THE LATEST STIMSON PURCHASE. As already mentioned briefly in THE Times, several' transfers of much importance have been made during the ast week. The sale of the Hammel & Denker corner, on Spring and Third streets, to T. D. Stimson, was menstreets, to T. D. Stimson, was mentioned in this column last week—"exclusively," as some esteemed contemporaries would put it. The price could not then be given. It is now stated to be $170,000. The sale is understood to have been made through Herman Hellman. Deducting the value of the one-story block, this leaves about $1200 a foot for the land. Keal estate men consider this price rather low, and it is said Mr. Denker refused an offer of $200,000 for the rather low, and it is said Mr. Denker refused an offer of $200,000 for the property a short time before his death. His widow is acting wis in clearing up the estate, which is said to be somewhat involved. Mr. Stimson now has two fine corners at Third and Spring. He will, undoubtedly, in time put up a block on the newly-acquired property corresponding in importance with the one he is erecting opposite, and with corresponding in importance with the one he is erecting opposite, and with the Bradbury Block on Third and Broadway. Third street will soon begin to put on airs. Mr. Stimson's investments in Los Angeles are said to aggregate nearly $1,000,000. He has probably done more than any other man to inspire confidence and stiffen the backbone of the market.

THE NADEAU BANCHO SALE. Another important purchase by an Eastern capitalist recently come among us—M. Cudahy—was that of the Nadeau ranch, covering 2770 acres, just south of the city, for $196,000 cash. The property was owned by the Anglo-Nevada Insurance Company of San Francisco. This property, at the price, which is equivalent to about seventy dollars an acre, is certainly a great bargain. The soil is a fine sandy loam, admirably adapted to potatoes and other vegetables, for the raising of which products it has been used by Chinese and white lessees for several years past. Originally there Another important purchase by an been used by Chinese and white lessees for several years past. Originally there was an immense vineyard on the place. It contains some very large eucalypting groves. Here Mr. Nadeau made the first attempt at beet-sugar production in Southern California—an attempt which was not successful, from the fault of the soil. A portion of the ranch—not included in this sale—was subdivided later in the boom—or rather after the subsidence of the boom—when it naturally met with slow sale. At the northwest corner of the tract the Earl Fruit Company recently erected a pack-Fruit Company recently erected a pack-ing house, for vegetables and oranges, on an acre of ground which they pur-

Another important transaction is the granting of a short option to the Ger-man-American Savings Bank on eightyman-American Savings Bank on eightyseven feet at the northeast corner of Main and First, a portion of the Nordhelt property, the price being understood to be $80,000. The only improvements are a lot of rockeries, the removal of which will be hailed with general satisfaction. The option is understood to be merely for the purpose of searching the title, and the sale is as good as made. The bank, a young as good as made. The bank, a young institution, which has made a remarkable growth during the past few years, will erect on the property for its use a bank building equal to may in the city. This will be a welcome improvement in a section of the business quarter which has been much neglected.

For the remainder of the Nordholdt property, extending down as far as Los Angeles street, and also occupied by unsightly and evil-smelling shantles, an offer of $100,000 has been made. Should the offer be accepted, the largest wholesale warehouse in Los Angeles will be erected there, a tenant having already offered to lease the building for ten years, at a satisfactory price. This property is part of the original Nordhold estate. Henry Bentley, charged with poisoning his wife, Mrs. Nordhold, is not interested in it. Now, if Mrs. Childs would buy the opposite corner, adjoining the operahouse, covered with tumble-down shantles, and put up a fine block, the corner of Main and First would begin to assume an appearance comporting with the dignity of the city.

OTHER TRANSACTIONS AND MOVEMENTS. OTHER TRANSACTIONS AND MOVEMENTS.

William H. Perry, proprietor of the Los Angeles Theater, recently offered $90,000 for the adjoining Turnverein Hall property, which was refused. He raised his offer this week to $95,000, but the Turners still hold out for more. Richard Garwey has made a $30,000 sale of land on his ranch, east of the

There has been of late quite a move ment of property in that beautiful but much neglected section on the western hills, outside the city limits, on what is known as the Lick tract. There is no more delightful section for residence in the county than that referred to. The section has the advantages of closeness to the city—being only from a half to two miles from the city limits—pure ocean airs, magnificent views and a climate that is comparatively frostless, parmitting tomaless and about delicate permitting tomatoes and other delicate plants to grow the winter through. With all these assections, it is strange With all these averactions, it is a trange that settlement has been so slow, but the great trouble has been lack of transportation facilities. This must be remedied before long, as the section settles up. At present, the only way to get out there is by the dummy road, which connects with the Temple street

Much of this property was sold during the boom at prices ranging as high as $1500 an acre, for speculation, to parties, many of whom are now beginning to improve at. A number of bankers and capitalists are making fine improvements. On a hill commanding a wonderful view is the Winchester Hotel, an incomplete relic of the boom. This property was purchased some Hotel, an incomplete resic of the boom.
This property was purchased some time ago by Wesley Young, a millionaire manufacturer of Dayton, Ohio, who is also a stockholder in the Southern California National Bank. Mr. Young has a large orange orchard at Riverside. He owns forty acres at this point, and will make it one of the most side. He owns forty acres at this point, and will make it one of the most beautiful places in the county. Gen. Remich, another millionaire, has forty acres in the neighborhood set to olives and lemons. The latter fruit grows here to perfection. Mr. Brotherton, president of the Citizens' Bank, recently bought fifteen acres near by, which he will plant to lemons. Judge Taggat has also purchased a place, which he is improving. William H. Avery, another millionaire, has twenty acres there, ten acres of which he has improved. S. W. Little—also a very wealthy man—has forty acres, which he would not sell at any price. Wells are being sunk, and at a depth of about 100 feet pure water in quantity is found. With one well from five to ten acres of lemons can be irrigated. It is evident that before long there will be a residence section on the western to anything that can be seen at Pasadena or Riverside, with the charm of nearness to the ocean and city thrown in. Land in this section is held at from $160 to $300 per acre.

CHURCH PROPERTIES IN THE MARKET. As noted in this column several weeks ago, an offer of $32,000 cash was made and refused for the Unity Church ing-house, for vegetables and oranges, on an acre of ground which they purchased.

No location copid be imagined that is more admirably adapted for a manufacturing suburb than is this. The tract, which is right at the city line, is traversed by three railroads—the Southern Pacific, Santa Fé and Terminal—also by the Los Angeles River. Mr. Cudahy was induced to buy this tract, drattly, because it was extremely cheap, and, secondly, because the well-used in the packing-house, which he is erecting on Macy street, will ultimately be cramped for room, and need larger quarters. He believes that not only will Los Angeles soon turn out all the hog products needed for home consumption, but that such products will be exported as far East as Albuquerque, and morthward almost to the doors of San Prancisco. This would, of course, entail the employment of a large number of men, and build up an important manufacturing suburb. At Omaha the Codahy Packing Company alone employs about twenty-five hundred hands. Meantime Mr. Cudahy will continue to lease the land, as altyresent.

As stated, the price paid for this tract is remarkably cheap. At a rent of only 35 per acre—and Chinamen around Florence and Vernon pay as high as 315—the investment would not the tract, be could undoubtedly sell it off in a few months, in five and tenacre lots, as prices which would net him $100,000 profit. During the boom $800,000 is said to have been offered for the property. The encouraging point is, however, that Eastern capitalists of good judgment are beginning to recognize hargains when they see them. The Property owners, almost without ex-ception, strongly condemn the bills ap-pointing expensive commissions for pointing expensive commissions for opening streets, an outline of two of which was given last week. As one property owner remarked, there would be no trouble in finding responsible men, who are directly interested in the improvements, to serve for nothing for the sake of seeing that their interests are properly attended to.

Real-estate business on Puget Sound must be in the dumps. Several inquiries have been received from capitalists there seeking investments in Los Angeles business property.

Summed up in a few words, and divested of exaggeration and froth, the condition of the local real estate market is this: It is possible to sell bargains today, whereas, a year ago, the greatest bargains could scarcely be given away.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Regular Weekly Meeting of the Board The Board of Directors of the Chamer of Commerce met yesterday at 8 p.

m. There were present Directors Free sons, Graff, Eisen, Edwards, and Pike. President Freeman occupied the chair. Andrew McNally, of the firm of Rand McNally & Co., recommended by E. F. Klokke and C. J. Kubach, recomme

Director Klokke reported in behalf of the Banquet Committee that several meetings had been called which had been very poorly attended, but that he and the secretary had interviewed a and had found that the most of them and had found that the most of them proposed to attend. Mr. Klokke stated that the sale of tickets had proceeded far enough to make the affair an un-doubted success, and that acceptances had been received from a number of invitations sent to people of prominence in the surrounding country. The com mittee was exhorted to go on with the work, and the secretary was instructed to send out special notices urging all members of the committee to assist. Director Graff reported in behalf of the Committee on Law and Legislation, recommending that the bill submittee at the last meeting of the board by Mr Germain for the establishment of: training ship for boys, under the charge of the State, be indorsed by the Cham-ber, and that the members of the Legislature from Los Angeles county be urged to support the measure. It was moved and carried that the recommendations of the committee be adopted.

Director Graff called attention to the fact that the appropriation for the Whittier Reform School having been exhausted, local merchants who sent supplies to the school were put to no small inconvenience and loss, and he moved that the Los Angeles representatives at Sacramento be requested to moved that the Los Angeles represent-atives at Sacramento be requested to urge the passage of a bill to appropri-ate sufficient funds to pay the current indebtedness of the institution, and to supply the school with sufficient funds to carry it through until the next ses-sion of the Legislature. The motion was carried.

A communication was read from Dithat any appropriation would get through the present session of Congress in favor of San Pedro, owing to the fact that it was a short session, and both houses were overwhelmed with business. He stated his belief, how-ever, that the work done at this session would count on the perf.

A telegram was read from Frank

Communications were read from C. M. Simpson and R. N. Bulla, Assemblymen at Sacramento, promising to support certain measures which were nreed by the Chamber of Commerce.

Director Klokke offered the following resolutions, which were adopted by unanimous vote:

Resolved, that the thanks of the Chamber of Commerce are hereby tendered to the Southern Pacific Company for their courtesy displayed in taking the members on an excursion to visit Santa Monica, and to view the new wharf in process of construction at that point.

Resolved, that the secretary be instructed to inform J. M. Crawley, the local representative of the company, of this action.

REFORM SCHOOLS.

The Intelligent and Economical Management of Them.

Flews of Prof. Joseph Rodes Buchanas Training-The Whittier Management Criticised.

Los Angeles, Feb. 14 .- [To the Ed. tor of THE TIMES.] The admirable, practical suggestions of THE TIMES con-cerning the Whittier Reform School have interested me greatly, and cre ated a desire to make some further suggestions on aspects of the question which THE TIMES has not discussed.

Reform schools for criminal or dis-orderly youth are by far the most im-portant institutions that a State can maintain, for it is only by them that our dangerous and expensive mass of criminal population can be reduced. The gallows and the State's prison can-not protect us. Theft, robbery and murder go on undiminished, no matter murder go on undiminished, no matter how vigilant the police or how faithful the courts. Our dependence must be mainly on the reform schools, which take charge of all juvenile criminals, or youth that bid fair to become criminals, and convert them into good citizens. If the jurisdiction of reformatory schools were sufficiently extended, so that all youth surrounded by dangerous conditions could be brought by dangerous conditions could be brought under their management, but few criminals would be found who were not imported from some region where such institutions are not in operation.

There are very few youth so innately deprayed as not to be capable of reformation, and this has been demonstrated so often that we may consider it unques-tionable. Nevertheless, as the public generally are not sufficiently informed generally are not sufficiently informed on that subject, I would refer to a number of reformatory institutions in the United States, England and France, where all that I assert has been practically proved during the last twenty-five years. I would refer specifically only to one of these reformatory institutions, located in Ohio, with the head of which I had the pleasure of acquaintance, and the record of ure of acquaintance, and the record of which is complete and authentic. I refor to the State Reform School of Ohio, located near Lancaster, then under the superintendence of G. W. Howe. Its pupils were all young criminals, from 11 to 16 years of age, convicted in the courts of the State and entenced to confinement in this institution. Under the wise and able administration of Mr. Howe it ceased to ministration of Mr. Howe it ceased to be a prison, for he so changed their characters that walls, guards and locks were no longer needed, and they remained with him voluntarily until their education and reformation was completed. They were advanced as they were improved, and when he was satisfied that they were entirely reformed, they were kindly and honorably discharged, and often returned to the alumni reunions of the school, to which they were indebted for their rewhich they were indebted for their re-spectability and success in life. It was indeed a model school, carrying out completely the ethical principles em-bodied in the "New Education," of which I have issed four editions, but which is o longer in the market.

There is no school in this country, embracing children of respectable parents, which can offer so good a record as this, of the general deportment of the pupils, and their subsequent career in life proves that their reformation was complete.

Therough moral instruction by the only successful methods was at Lancaster combined with industrial training, half of their time being given to industrial occupatian, while their intellectual progress was beyond the average of our common schools.

It is therefore an established fact that industrial occupation in schools is a great aid to both intellect-ual and moral development. And as intelligent industrial occupation is profit table, it follows that it greatly reduces the expenses of the school, and that a true reformatory school following such an example is the cheapest educational institution that can possibly be estab-lished, as well as the most beneficent. Indeed, the education of youth in such an institution should cost far less than their maintenance at home and education in the common schools Knowing this I was surprised at the statement that the cost of pupils in the Whittier Reform School has been $300 per annum for each person.

I know not by what amount of ignorance, mismanagement and reckless-ness such a result has been reached but the bare statement is sufficient to show that the management of the school has been shamefully incompe-

Certainly $150 per annum would be a very liberal allowance for the food and clothing of a boy, and many insti-tutions have been conducted much more cheaply.

Neither the public nor our best improved teachers have any correct idea of the extent to which the industrial occupation of youth may be made efficient in meeting the expenses of their education and maintenance. I think it has been demonstrated practically in the state of the state o tically that an allowance of $50 per annum per capita ought to be sufficient both for education and for maintenance when the best system is adopted education consists in so combining in-dustrial employment with intellectual and moral culture, that each shall help instead of hindering the other. Mr. Howe at Lancaster did not fully understand the combination, but he met the 'chief expenses of the institution by keeping the pupils at institution by keeping the pupils at work half of their time; but Ezekiel Rich of New Hampshire understood did either before or since.

He solved the problem by thoroughly combining instruction and useful labor, so that they did not interfere with each other, and while his pupils performed eight or nine hours of useful work this matter thoroughly, as no one ever eight or nine hours of useful work every day, they also received eight or nine hours of mental culture during the time they were at work.

The plan is exceedingly simple and rational. It is obvious that if an artisan while performing the work of a tailor, a shoemaker, or a stonemason had an enlightened companion who would talk to him and talk with him all the time with some intervals of rest, he might learn more in a day than if he had spent all the time in reading, for the ideas developed in conversation are far more interesting and impressive than when obtained by reading a book. Young men will pay $100 to hear a course of lectures when they could obtain matter equally good if not could obtain matter equally good if not better from works that would not cost mentally occupied by conversation and oral instruction. The result was that they were interested and delighted. Instead of being wearied out and anxious to get away, as boys are when confined to books eight or nine hours, they were cheerful and fresh at the end of the day. Work alone would have tired them, Either alone would have tired them. Either alone would have dulled their brains and exhausted their animal life. But industrial occupation and agreeable convertions. exhausted their animal rife.

trial occupation and agreeable conversation combined, made the day pass with interest and pleasure. Everything with interest and pleasure. Everything was so agreeable that there was no occasion for punishment, and the grand result at the end of the year was thus expressed: "The institution has well-supported itself, paid 6 per cent. yearly on all the property used and laid up, besides, earnings of $200 a year."

This is a glorious solution of the problem of sociology. It gives us education without cost. It shows that the labor of youth rightly managed will pay all their expenses of support and education, for Mr. Rich's was a boarding-school, sustained by the labor of the scholars alone, and therefore that poverty, the most extreme, is no barrier to I education, when the right system is adopted. I say to a noble education for the education given by Mr. Rich was superior to anything I have ever seen reported by others. It was intellectual, moral, hygienic and industrial. Pupils of victors and neverses habits were in vicious and perverse habits were invariably reformed. The health of all was greatly improved, and he mentions a girl of 15 who could walk thirty-five miles a day without inconvenience. Their intellectual progress was greatly unprior to the average of comments. superior to the average of common schools, and as to the superiority of his system he said he would not be willing to dispense with the hard labor a single day, even if it were of no pecuniary value, for, as he says, add proper labor to oral instruction and the rapidity of acquisition is superisingly increased.

of acquisition is surprisingly increased and the fatigue diminished. "When work is brisk learning is brisk." Mr. Rich's magnificent innovation on old methods, which promises so much for the elevation of humanity and eradication of crime, even more than our best reform schools, was presented to the American Institute of Instruc ion, but has not attracted the attention of teachers. Their idea of manual training has been simply so struction for so much payphilanthropy that enables the poor boy

I don't expect to see this noble system introduced until another Rich shall be born with a genius for educational philanthrophy. But the established systems of the best reformatory schools of America and Europe are mainly in-dustrial, and therefore economical. A reform school spending $300 per capita is an imposition on the public, and I think I have shown that the best possible education for reformatory schools is so wisely industrial as to come near annihilating the cost of edu-cation, but the application of such sys-tem requires men of philanthropic spirit and educational genius. Meantime, we should not allow our institutions to fall JOSEPH RODES BUCHANAN.

Judge Shaw vesterday morning rer dered his decision in the case of the Old Settlement Water Company vs. the Po mona Land and Water Company et al. which was recently submitted upon demurrer to the amended complaint therein, ordering the demurrer sus tained in accordance with a written opinion in which the Court briefly sets forth its reasons for so ruling. These are, in effect, that plaintiff's right or interest in the water rights, etc., in controversy is such as it may be entitled to virtue of a certain agreement, which the Court holds was obviously drawn so as to avoid having the effect of a conveyance of title, and as plaintiff, there fore, does not hold the title, either in its own right or as trustee, it can not maintain an action to quiet that title nor can it maintain an action to enjoin repeated trespasses, for the same

In Department One yesterday morn ing, William Paul, a youth in the employ of the Union Ice Company, ap peared before Judge Smith and a jury for trial upon the charge of perjury, for which he was recently indicted by for which he was recently indicted by the grand jury, it being alleged that on August 4 last he applied to T. J. Gallagher, a deputy county clerk appointed for the purpose of registering voters, for the registration of his name upon the Great Register of this county, stating under oath that he had been naturalized by order of the Superior Court of San Diego county, but had less naturalized by order of the Superior Court of San Diego county, but had lost his certificate, with several other papers, by the loss of a trunk in San Francisco, when in fact, he had been co, when in fact he had never been naturalized, and was not entitle to register.

C. C. Stephens, Esq., appeared as counsel for the defendant, and Deputy District Attorney Dupuy conducted the case for the prosecution.

The jurors selected to try the case were as follows: W. C. Bell, B. J. Davis, A. E. Dixon, W. Dryden, G. W. Freeman, C. Gerson, A. E. Gless, A. B. Hall, D. E. Hall, W. F. Lancaster, S. Lipp and A. E. Meigs. Nine witnesses were called and examined for the prosecution, viz: Gallagher, J. M. Dunsmoor, Omri Hs. Waldo M. York, Esq., County Clerk Ward, S. W. Luitwieler, A. P. Hoffman, H. de Garmo and J. A. Bucklein, a deputy in the County Clerk's office at San Diego. Their testimony was brief, but conclusive, the chain of evidence against the defendant being apparently complete, when the prosecution

ested its case. Four character witnesses were called by the defendant, as follows: Jacob Adloff, Louis Ebinger, John Koster and W. S. Pitney, and at the close of their testimony the Court adjourned for the day, the matter going over until this rning.

SUPREME COURT OPINION.

The decision of the Supreme Court, reviewing the judgment and order of the Superior Court of Santa Barbara county in the case of Perine (respond on a street assessment, was received by Deputy Clerk Sesnon yesterday, accom-panied by a lengthy commissioners. ent) vs. Forbush (appelant), an action panied by a lengthy commopinion, for filing in this city.

The plaintiff

plaintiff alleged that the contract, upon the assessment sought to be enforced is based, was not made within the prescribed time, fifteen days, after award to plaintiff, and, in the absence of any averment that the delay was not caused by any fault of plaintiff, the Court holds that the complaint does not state a cause of action, as it fails to show any authority in the Street Super-intendent to make the contract after the expiration of the fifteen days named in the statute, which is manda-tory, and not directory, in its pro-vision fixing the time within which contracts for street improvements shall be executed, and ordering that when the bidder has neglected or refused for fifteen days to enter into the contract awarded him the City Council must again advertise for proposals, and the Street Superindent is without power to relieve him from the consequence of his neglect, etc. It is claimed, however, by plaintiff that the assessment cannot be held invalid because of the act of the Superintendent in entering into the contract after the time fixed by statute, as decouncil from such action, but the City Council from such action, but the Court holds that, the contract being void, it was not incumbent upon defendant to appeal to the City Council (Brock vs. Luning, 89 Cal., 316.)

It is also held that it is no defense to the action that the property against the action that the property against which it is sought to enforce this lien constituted the homestead of defendant, as the cost or making such im-provements as those embraced in the contract is as much a charge against the homestead as any other property fronting thereon, and the other defenses set up are held to be equally without merit.

RAILROAD AFFAIRS

The New San Diego. Boat Line

Stirring Up Things.

The Santa Fe to Put on a "Flyer"

The Rivers and Bays to Be Utilized to Large Extent for the Purpose-A Change of the North Coast Road.

The new boat line to San Diego has stirred up the Santa Fé traffic departnent. Competition is likely to become lively between Los Angeles and San Diego. It is understood that the railroad company will put on a new train, which will be a "flyer." This train will leave Los Angeles at 9 a.m., make one stop, at Santa Ana, for water, and reach San Diego at 12:30 p.m. Returning the train will leave San Diego at 2:30 p.m. and reach Los Angeles at 6 p.m. Round trip tickets will be sold at a low rate, which is, as yet, not specified. specified.

WILL FIGHT THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC. The San Francisco Call of Thursday publishes the following:

A company is being organized to utilize the rivers and bays in California on a large scale for the transportation of freight and passengers.

It is the intention of the promoters of this scheme to engage in the most vigorous opposition to the Southern Pacific Company at all points which can be reached by water.

pany at all points which can be reached by water.

The argument of the men who are at the head of this new enterprise is that the extensive mileage of the Southern Pacific road will make it possible to compete with that company at rates so low that Mr. Huntington's losses will be very large if he meets the figure of the new company.

On the Sa cramento River there are long stretches which are paralleled on both sides by Southern Pacific lines.

The proposed river navigation company will establish a service which, for every mile it covers along that line, will compete with two miles of the railroad's two parallel lines.

The farmers and merchants in the upper valleys and towns near the rivers will be astonished some day in the near future to find that travel and transportion is made possible for them at rates very much lower than they had ever dreamed of securing.

The new company will, as soon as the preliminaries now under way are completed, secure all the steamers, scows, barges and floats it can find, and go into the business with every possible energy.

ourges and notes it can had, and go into the business with every possible energy. If they meet with the patronage they have a right to expect they intend to carry freights and passengers for figures so small as to make the officials at Fourth and Townend streets wince.

If the Southern Pacific Company makes the necessary sacrifices to meet the water line's figures, the latter will cut rates still line's figures, the latter will cut rates still lower and depend upon the public discernment for patronage, because the people will readily see the men who forced the railroad to lower its rates are entitled to the traffic, and not Mr. Hontington.

The new company will not be satisfied with reaching only such places as border direct on the rivers and bays, but will, as soon as matters are once well under way, build branch roads into the interior of the valleys of San Joaquin and Sacramento. NORTH PACIFIC COAST CHANGES HANDS.

The San Francisco Chronicle says controlling interest in the North Pacific Coast Railroad Company has been purchased by Leroy G. Harvey & Co., and on Monday Mr. Harvey took his seat in the board of directors.

This important transfer of railroad property means a great deal to the people of San Francisco and of Marin county. Not only will new life be infused into the corporation, but it is proposed to build a separate line of road from Sausalito to Bolinas, a distance of wenty-one miles.

About a year ago William Graves, who was then connected with the road, made considerable talk about building a made considerable talk about building a road between these points, but nothing came of it. Messrs. Harvey & Co., however, have already secured the right-of-way for the road, and survey-ors are now in the field. From their report the company will determine which of the several surveys already made they will select.

The new road will start from a point on Richardson's hay above Sausalito, and skirt the ocean shore for a number of miles, and give a magnificent and in-

of miles, and give a magnificent and incomparable view of the Pacific.

Mr. Wright of the company, when seen yesterday, said: "Work on the road will be commenced at an early date and pushed to completion as quickly as possible. Our rights-of-way have been perfected and the surveyors are in the field. One year from today we expect to have the road completed.
It will benefit San Francisco both commercially and socially. Besides openmercially and socially. Besides open-ing up a large district of rich farming land along the line of the road, and enabling the farmers to ship their products to San Francisco, it will also place Bolinas, which has all the requisites of a magnificent watering place, within fifty minutes of this city.

TEMPERANCE TEMPLE.

TEMPERANCE TEMPLE.

The Final Canvass to Raise the Debt Fairly Under Way.

The W.C.T.U. have started on their final canvass in earnest to raise the money to pay off the debt on Temperance Temple, and from now until the 7th of March, when the canvass closes, every member and friend of the organization is expected to do their duty. The total amount of the debt is $25,000. Of this amount, all but $3700 had been pledged when the subscriptions temporarily closed. Since the final canvass commenced $210 has been secured, leaving now but $3490 to be raised.

This is a very small amount when the value of the work being prosecuted by these noble women is considered, and the city cannot afford to allow them to fall in their laudable ambition to pay off the debt on their temple when success is almost within their grasp.

A meeting of the organization will be held Monday, when the details of this final canvass will be arranged, the field mapped out and the canvassers placed. In the meantime, what public-spirited citizen will arouse enthusiasm and encourage others to come to the front by starting the final subscription list with a liberal donation of from $100 to $500! It will be money well spent, and will encourage the workers.

IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

The reception given by Mrs. R. M. Widney and daughters last Thursday afternoon was attended by a perfect crush of people. Owing to the storm of the previous Thursday, all the 500 guests bidden deferred their call till the last reception day, and the street in front of the Widney residence on Olive street was literally blockaded with carriages during the hours of re-ceiving. The house was darkened, and scores of Japanese lanterns, strung on garlands of smilax suspended from corner to corner of the ceilings, shed a soft radience more subdued than gaslight. No flowers at all were used in the decorations, in conformation with the custom now prevailing in Eastern the custom now prevailing in Bastern cities. Magnificent tree ferms were arranged about the grate and mantel in the drawing-room, and one corner was converted into a perfect grotto of tropical plants. Mrs. Widney, in a handsome reception gown of filmy black lace over pale electric blue silk, stood just within the drawing-room at the hall entrance, and beside her were her daughters. Miss Widneys were a beautiful pink satin gown, with myrtle beautiful pink satin gown, with myrtle green velvet bouffant sleeves. The square-cut neck was decorated with pearl passementerie, and the full baby waist confined by a velvet belt of the same shade as the sleeves. The costume was most becoming to her striking blonde beauty. Miss Frances Widney, who is one of our charming "buds" of '93, was all in white, as a debutante should be with a cluster of sweet likesshould be, with a cluster of sweet lilies of-the-valley in her bodice. Mrs. John Ellis also assisted in receiving, and wore an elegant gown of black, velvet with V-shaped bertha of rare old lace.

CO. A'S BALL.

Armory Hall never presented so brill ant an appearance on the occasion of a military ball as last evening when Co. A, Seventh Infantry, N. G. C., gave their midwinter ball. A pointed arch of Japanese lanterns rose above the lower entrance, with a crossbar, forming an immense letter A. The landing at the head of the first flight of stairs was immense letter A. The landing at the head of the first flight of stairs was curtained by two immense flags drawn back from the center and flanked by growing palms in urns. Two door tenders in military uniform, Messrs. Wilkins and Miles, stood here and held the curtains aside as the throng arrived. White canvas was stretched over the upper flight of stairs, and a network of Japanese lanterns strung on wires flashed their many colored lights from the celling. Entering the ballroom the eye was fairly dazzled by the brilliancy of the scene. An immense Japanese umbrella was suspended from the center of the ceiling, and radiating from it were lines of the most beautiful Japanese lanterns, large and small, strung on wires and swung to the balcony railing, forming a canopy of myriad colors over the heads of the dancers. A large, handsome flag hung before each window, and others were hung against the wall heads of the dancers. A large, handsome flag hung before each window, and others were hung against the wall and the pillars which support the gallery. Between these pillars were singing birds, in gilded cages, hung at regular intervals. Potted plants were arranged ubout the stage, where Lopinsky's orchestra was stationed, and in front, resting on a beautiful silk flag, was the elegant silver fee pitcher and goblet, the Franklin trophy won by Co. was the elegant silver lee pitcher and goblet, the Franklin trophy won by Co. A in the rifle competition of '92. Shortly before 9 o'clock the bugie call sounded, the music struck up, and Prof. H. J. Kramer led the grand march through a series of beautiful evolutions. As the changing colors of the calcium lights were thrown upon the winding procession of 300 ladies and gentlemen the scene was indescribedly beautiful. The bright costumes of the ladies, the military uniforms of their partners, the canopy of many-colored lanterns, the inspiring music of the orchestra, mingled with the song from the throats of a dozen birds, made up a kaleidoscopic scene of such brilliancy as oro inspire the admiration of the most cynical social Solomon.

S. B. Clark of Aspen, Colo., who is here contracting for fruit to supply his comnission house at that point during the coming seasons, says Colorado, despite the depression of the silver market, is progressing as rapidly as ever. "In-deed," added Mr. Clark, "we have not felt the depression in Aspen, and probably won't, as with the drop in the price of silver the demands of mineowners on railways in hauling and smelters in reducing to meet the drop in sympathy was acceded to without a murmer, which fact acted as an in-centive to increase the product from the big mines, while local capital put in two clarge smelters, one, the Holden smelter, now working 300 men, and another, owned by a stock company, giving employment to seventy-five men.

"Of course the little mines, away from railway lines and smelters, and

"What mines are being worked at Aspen? Well, the Aspen group is working full-handed, as is the Dorant group and the Dellas, Bushwhacker and R. gent. The old Molly Gibson is working all the men she can give room to; she paid over $2,000,000 out in dividends paid over $2,000,000 out in dividends last year, and from indications will exceed that amount the current year. The Smuggler is now working about all the men she can use, while the Aspen Mining and Smelting Company is again working at full blast on its properties. "In Tourtellotte Park, just over or rather on top of the hill, the Celeste, Edison, Lotta and Last Dollar mines are working full-handed, while a number of smaller properties in the immediate vicinity are also producing.

"No, our smelters cannot handle all our ores. We ship to Pueblo, Denver, our ores. We ship to Pueblo, Denver, and even to Great Britain, but only the very refractory high grade ores across the water, to be worked at Swansea,

"I should say there were employed in the Aspen mines 5000 miners, who are paid $8 per day; probably 1000 more are employed in the surrounding smaller camps dependent upon Aspen for supplies."

Crops and Markets.

Oranges are not yet moving freely. The Eastern trade does not appear anx ious to buy. They do not appear to care to take any chances. On the other hand, shippers do not care to consign. so there is something of a dead lock. Again, the weather has been very cold in the East, and there is said to be still plenty of good fruit in Flor-ida to be shipped. The commission men say that prices must be reduced, an opinion which growers do not share to any considerable extent. There is no change to report In prices, choice navels being still quoted at $3, f. o. b.

In several sections of Southern California orange-growers have now organ-ized into local unions for the purpose of shipping their fruit. The result of these operations will be watched with interest on the part of the public, and with considerable anxiety by the shippers. As already remarked more than ace in these columns, the subject is an intricate and important one-an importance which is rapidly growing from year to year. It is too late to do much in this direction the present eason, but before the season of 1893-4 would be well if the orange-growers of Southern California could meet in convention, and take some steps to place the marketing of their fruit on a solid and systematic basis, either by making special arrangements with reputable commission houses, who are in thorough touch with Eastern consumers, or by arranging to ship direct. Growers must, however, understand at the outset that, in case the latter plan is adopted, large capital, perfect organ ization and thoroughly efficient busimanagement will be necessary The folly of attempting to do a $100, 000 business on a $500 capital was effectually shown in the result of the operations of the Fruit growers' Union of a year ago, for the losses on which little experiment the growers are now catled to put up, in hard cash.

The demand is still very good for vegetables for Eastern shipments. Owing to the Chinese New Year, which commenced this week, shipments have been very light for several days, this business being almost entirely in the hands of Chinamen, who are pocketing $200 a carload for produce raised on about an acre of land. It is strange that, where so many white men are grumbling about hard times, they do not lease a piece of land and plant it to cabbages, cauliflower or early potatoes, for which products there is now an established demand in the East, in carload lots. The industry is rapidly growing, and shipments will soon be going forward by trainloads, instead of carloads. Chinamen stick to the business, year in and year out, and grow rich, while the white man, if he happens to strike a bad year, quits in disgust. It is not very flattering to the self-respect of the Caucasian to hear the comments made by local commission mea—not for publication—on the differing business methods of Chinese and white producers. The farmers of the Placentia country have broken the ice in this direction by combining to as recently noted in these columns. is to be hoped that they will soon have many imitators. Land which will net $200 an acre in vegetables is entirely too valuable to devote to barley hay, which seldom nets more than $20, and often not that much.

Profit in Cut Flowers.

The raising of flowers for the market is a light and pleasant branch of horticulture which is admirably adapted to give profitable employment to women. A lady who lives in the northwestern hill-section of Los Angeles, where there is little or no frost, has been making $1.50 a day, for several months, by selling out reses to Los Angeles florists. She has comparatively few bushes, grown on a limited portion of a fifty-foot residence lot. The roses most in demand are white ones, which are so extensively used at weddings and funerals. The price paid is 10 cents per

From time to time, fresh California flowers have been shipped East, where they bring very high prices at this time of year—roses in winter selling at from $3 to $18 per dozen. The industry has become of sufficient importance to induce the railroads to issue a tariff on cut flowers from California to Chicago and other common points. The rate is $1.25 per 100, charges to be prepaid or guaranteed. This is the rate by regfreight train, but the flowers can go through on approximate passenger time at the rate of $2.25 per 100. The charges for bringing back the empty special flower refrigerator cars will be $105 each, from the Missouri

Many experiments in various methods of shipping fresh flowers East have been made during the past ten years some of which have resulted in failure some of which have resulted in failure, while others have been successful. For many years shipments of fresh flowers have been made from San Francisco to Portland, Or., Ogden, Sait Lake, Denver and intermediate points, but Chicago is much farther off, and the problem of how to have the grant of the problem. cago is much farther off, and the problem of how to keep the flowers fresh is more difficult to solve. The question of how much air or how little should be admitted to the flowers is one upon which much difference of opinion exists.
When handled in carload lots it is easier to preserve the flowers than when shipped in small quantity, as in the former case equable temperature can be maintained during the entire trip, and the flower car would be free from the injurious effects of other freight.

The plan of inserting the stems of flowers, as soon as cut, into a potato, hollowed out and cut in half for their reception, but been adopted with considerable success, in some cases. In shipping flowers in doxes, it is very necessary to pack them closely to prevent their bruising one another. The boxes generally used are long and narrow. In the center, cotton batting, well dampened, is placed, and into it the stems are thrust, the buds being thus toward the ends of the box. On the top of each layer of batting a small piece of ice is usually laid to chill the stems at the outset, and a light wooden batten helps to steady the contents of the box. Great care is taken not to get the blossoms wet, only the stems being moistened. Carefully packed around the buds and between the lay-ers of blooms is oil paper, usually pretty stout and of a dark shade.

Among the flowers which have been most successfully shipped east are chrysanthemums, which have been sent to New York and have arrived there in very good condition. Carnations stand the journey well, and so do roses. In addition to these three flowers, sweet peas, lilies and ferns are shipped. There is a big opening for the shipment of orange blossoms, which are very costly in the East. If the arrival of the flowers in a sound condition could be inflowers in a sound condition could be in-sured, it is probable that a crop of orange blossoms would pay the grower better than a crop of oranges. The shipment of cut flowers in re-

The shipment of cut flowers in refrigerator cars, on quick time, will much facilitate the business, and promises to add yet another to the profitable horticultural industries of the State. Some time ago the ladies' committee of the State World's Fair Association announced their intention to try to supply the California State building with fresh flowers, daily sent from San Francisco. This would be a great advertisement for the new industry. The orange blossems sent to Chicago during the citrus exhibit there created a real sensation, and were eagerly sought by sation, and were eagerly sought by crowds of people as souvenirs,

An Ambitious Project.

THE TIMES is in receipt of a circular announcing the formation of the "Na-tional Fruit Association," with headquarters at Sacramento, the organizer of the movement being, apparently, E. L. Goodsell, who states that the combination represents a joint capital of $8,000,000, which is a very large figure. The association promises place growers directly in communica tion with firms at each consuming point, and to give shippers many other advantages.

Seventeen firms, in various cities of the United States, are named as com prising the association. The Boston rm mentioned-Messrs, Blake & Ripley -has telegraphed, in answer to an inquiry, that while Mr. Goodsell has een in communication with them, he has no authority to use their name in connection with his organization.

As the fruit interests of California assume greater proportions, it may be expected that the large profits to be made in handling the crop will attract increasing attention from enterprising persons throughout the country day is almost past when the California fruit-grower has to seek a market. fruit-grower has to seek a market. Henceforth, he will be more on a par with the producer of wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco and other great staples. The glut caused by a small production will be replaced by a scarcity, owing to competition on the part of buyers for a large crop, which it pay them to handle.

Meantime, it is the part of wisdom to thoroughly investigate all plans pro-posed for the marketing of fruits, and o adopt the best.

Does Olive Culture Pay?

Last week THE TIMES referred to a re markable statement made at a recent ture, to the effect that "at present olive growing is not a profitable pursuit. in reply to a request for the experience some of our Southern California olive-growers, the following communication from one of the leading olive men of this section has been received It shows, at least, that the statement referred to was rash and ill-considered It is a pity that such assertions should be allowed to go out with the apparent sanction of a State Institution without Sixty trees, some eight years old, along a roadside on the home place of the late George Waterman, near San Bernardino, brought this year $6.30 per tree.

Robb Bros. & Wilder of Riverside bought the clives on eight trees, seven years old, growing along a street of that place for $50, and paid for the gathering.

Loud & Gerling of this place paid $10.08 per tree for the fruit of fifty brees along a roadside near West Glendale.

Dr. B. B. Briggs of Crescenta, Los Angeles county, has a tree that bore fifty gallons of fruit at thirteen years of age. Made into pickles, the crop would be worth, at wholesale, 75 cents per gallon, or $37.50.

Maj. L. H. Utt of Redlands has an or-chard in San Diego county that averaged eighty gallons to the tree, when sixteen rears old, which, at 75 cents per gallon, would amount to $60 per tree.

Many other instances might be cited to thow that olive culture is becoming one of the most profitable industries of our sec-cion of the State.

Orange Shipments to England. Referring to the article in last week's Times on this subject, C. T. Blackisto ones of Lincoln Park sends the follow ing from one of the oldest and most responsible fruit firms in London. The "other fruits" referred to in the letter are deciduous fruits, shipped last season from California to London:

The other fruit you mention was of a very delicate nature, and no doubt having been specially refrigerated, it rapidly developed any inherent weakness, directly it experienced a change of climate here. This is the writer's opinion, who saw much of it on its arrival in London, and had the pleasure of tasting some, and can only conclude that the arrangements necessary for its transit rob it of its flavor. This is usual in such cases. Yours very truly,

For Keeling & Hunt,

F. Mott.

As an evidence of the great interest taken all over the world in California horticulture, and, incidentally, of the value of extensive advertising, the experience may be cited of the Pacific Fruit Grower, a Los Angeles monthly which started during the boom, when everybody was trying to cut up his or chard into "business lots." The jour nal ceased publication in March, 1888ive years ago-and scarcely a week ha passed since then without bringing re quests for sample copies from every part of the world, from Australia to Nova Scotia. This week two post cards were received from different points in Germany, asking for copies of the pub-lication, and information as to horticultural affairs in California.

Pecan Culture.

[California Fruit Grower.] usually conservative conte porary, the Oroville Register, we fear, has lately been utilizing pecan literature of the boom type emanating from Mississippi. The Register declares:

"A tree ten or twelve years of age will bear from six to ten bushels of nuts that are worth at least $5 a bushel. The nuts will keep without difficulty for a year, and often at the end of two years they are sweet and good." e If the Register means by "a tree" some single individual tree whereof it some single individual tree whereor it knows, that bears from six to ten bushels of nuts, worth $5 per bushel, we shall make no effort to disprove it; but if it be understood that pecan culture in California or alsowhere is likely ture in California or elsewhere is likely to reach such magnificent results, we take decided issue with it. The write ereof, reading a few fairy tales simila to that given by the Register, thought the surest way to overtake Jay Gould in the financial scramble was to embark in pecan culture. The fact that he is the writer of this is sufficient that he is the writer of this is sumcient evidence of the collapse of that part of the enterprise. However, in order to go about the thing intelligently, a journey was made from California through the Texas and Louisiana "pecan belt," and a study made of all the conditions. It was found that the most persistent advocate of extensive pecan culture in the United States had one tree, about thirty years old, from which he was selling nuts for seed at a dollar a pound.

From the rather expensive facts gathered at that time we are constrained to regard with some suspicion the statements of large returns from pecan trees only 10 or 12 years old. Pecan culture may and probably will succeed fairly well in this State, but it must not be supposed that very heavy re turns will be assured from trees at 10 years of age. It would be no doubt a graceful and kindly act toward posterity to plant large groves of the pe-can in localities well adapted to its growth. But the editor of the Register is a younger man than we think he is if he can reasonably hope to enjoy in this life the fruition of a pecan orchard planted now in any part of California. Our advice, there-fore, born of some little experience and fore, born of some little experience observation, is, plant pecans—for your children's children—but for yourself children's children, cabbages, plant potatoes, onions, cabbages prunes, peaches, apricots, olives, wal nuts perhaps, oranges, lemons; raise chickens and turkeys, run for office, get married, go to church; but don't plant pecans and sit down to wait for them to make you wealthy in ten years, for you will certainly "get left."

Bulb-growing for Market.

[Crown Vista.] There are many women who would like to earn a livelihood or something toward it, so situated that they cannot leave home and yet have time apart from their family duties which they might devote to some work requiring care and supervision. To those who own a home and have quite a garden spot, the growing of bulbs offers an opportunity. The Eastern florist will often take large quantities of calla lily and other bulbs. Our climate and soil and other bulbs. Our climate and soil are especially adapted to their cultiva-tion, and it is not difficult, if certain sanction of a State institution without contradiction or qualification:

Pomona, Feb. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times you request information as to the profits os olive culture in Southern California. I will cite several instances that have come to my knowledge.

A three-acre orchard here at Pomona, nine years old, yielded 3000 gallons of pickled olives and several gallons of oil. The product was prepared for market by the late G. C. Muir, and his returns amounted to upwards of $2500.

Mr. Olmstead has a four-acre orchard near the above, five years old. The fruit from the trees this year brought $100 per acre.

Henry H. Wheeler of this place has 600. essentials to success are carefully of should be added to the soil, and the older and more rotten it is the better it will suit the plants. If the soil is heavy or stiff, add some sharp sand. Get the best bulbs possible, even if they cost twice as much as inferior ones. If you can possibly afford the Holland-grown bulbs buy them. Leave your bulbs alone until you know by the appearance of young plants about the old ones that they have increased considerably in number. Then, after they have completed their spring growth, take them up, separate and dry them, and keep in a cool place till ready to ship them. The work is light, pleasaut and healthful, and requires less attention than many avocations in which women engage, and, though, perhaps, not very engage, and, though, perhaps, not very remunerative, where engaged in as a side-work, will amply repay the time and money expended.

Mexican Oranges

Mexican Oranges.

[Minneapolis Produce Bulletin.]
In connection with the subject of Mexican oranges the writer met Señor R. P. Serrano of Guaymas, Sonora, Mexico, who was in the store at the time. Señor Serrano is the most extensive grower of oranges in Mexico. His province or State is located on the Gulf of St. Lawrence, at the southern terminus of the Santa Fé Railroad [Gulf of California.—En.] The grove is 800 acres in extent and another hundred acres is being prepared. It might be said in this connection that the famous Harris grove at Orange Lake, or Citra, Fla., has but 200 acres. In speaking of the oranges, the gentleman said:

"My crop this year amounted to about fifty cars. I have to pay a duty of 25 cents per box to get them in this country, and cannot afford to job them here in car lots at less than $3. In Denver they are bringing 25 to 50 cents above the price of Floridas. I sold E. P. Stacy & Sons of Minneapolis two cars last year, and they had a great run. I expect there are a few cars on track for me now."

When chided by Mr. Robertson about the easy time the growers have, while the easy time the growers have, while the poor commission man stayed up nights trying to sell the fruit, Mr. Ser-cano stated that he paid the foreman of the orchard $300 per month to look after matters.

Expenses on Florida Oranges.

[California Fruit Grower.]
A careful correspondent in New York sends us a close calculation of the cost attaching to Florida oranges reaching that market. He places the average cost of box, paper, nails and labor of packing at 40 cents per box; average rail freight in Florida, to Jacksonville, 15 cents per box; freight to New York. 30 cents per box; commission in New York, 15 cents, making a total charge of about $1 per box. For sales quoted therefore, deduct $1 per box, and the remainder represents about what the shipper should receive.

We think this a conservative estimate of expenses, for we have known of large contracts for packing at 45 cents per box, in Florida, and have known ship-pers to pay 30 cents per box, by the car-load, from Orange county to Jackson-ville, and 40 cents from Jackson-ville to New York by rail; thus fixing charges of $1.30 per box in New York, includ-ing seller's commission.

Horticultural Notes.

It is estimated that Riverside will this year pay out $180,000 for labor to pick and pack its oranges. The walnut growers of Ranchito and Los Nietos will have at the World's Fair a tower twenty-four feet high, constructed of plate glass and filled with walnuts. The tower will also be surmounted by an immense wooden walnut. The International Irrigation Congress, which is to be held in Los Angeles in September or October, will be of great benefit to Southern California, not only in throwing new light on irrigation questions, but also in drawing attention to the advantages of this section. All signs at present point to a higher market for olives. Latest accounts are to the effect, that the crop has been short this season, and that large fruit is positively scarce. As far as can be learned, the stock carried over from last year is moderate, says the Commercial Bulletin.

San Diego county is credited with 785 acres of bearing olive trees and 828 acres not bearing. Santa Barbara county is given 565 acres of bearing trees and 696 acres not bearing; while Los Angeles county, of which the Pomona district is a part, has, according to the report of the State Board and the state Board. cording to the report of the State Board of Horticulture, 415 acres of bearing olive trees and 373 acres not bearing.

The prune industry has developed re-markably of late in the Pomona region and a large proportion of the 8428 acres in the whole county of Los Angeles is to be found in the neighborhood of Pemona. Though it must be many years before Los Angeles county will overtake in prune production the 8000 acres of Santa Clara county, yet she is forging ahead in that direction with astonishing rapidity,—[California

PESTS AND DISEASES.

[Horticulturists who find new or unknow insect pests on their trees or plants are invited to send specimens, by mail, to THE TIMES, addressed to the Agricultural Editor. In an early issue after receipt of scribed, with instructions as to method of treatment.

Rufus Reynolds of Pomona sends TH Trues, without comment, a slip of raspberry vine infested with scale.

The scale is the rose scale (Diaspis The large scales are those of the females, while the narrow ones, having a distinct ridge extending along the middle of the back, belong to the males. The latter inally acquire wings, but the females re main wingless during their entire lives Besides the raspberry they also infest the blackberry and rose bushes, and, as might naturally be expected, are more numerous on the older plants than on those of a newer growth.

Perhaps the best remedy, to use their destruction is composed of four pounds of resin, one of caustic soda, three-fifths of a pint of fish oil, and the whole cooked until it will dilute per-fectly with water, after which a suffi-cient quantity of water should be added to make twenty gallons of the mixture. Of course the best time for applying this wash to the infested raspberry and blackberry bushes is when the latter are leafless, still it could be applied to them while in leaf, without injury, pro viding it is used in a slightly more di luted form than that given above.

The Gopher Pest.

BURBANK (Cal.,) Feb. 7, 1898.—What BURBANK (Cal.) Feb. 7, 1895.—What is more exasperating and aggravating than the gopher pest?

It often occurs to my mind that the money expended by the State in behalf of sheep-owners, many of whom are foreigners, and to a great extent intruders on public domain to the annoyance of actual settlers and the exclusion of more general and progressive industry, themselves earning bounties ance of actual settlers and the exclusion of more general and progressive industry, themselves earning bountles paid in protection of their individual interest, could be more pradently invested by the State in raisins and strychnine crystals.

I have often been informed of the efficacy of a good, fat raisin, split or punctured with the little blade of a penkuffe, and enough strychnine crystals to compare in bulk with one-half that of a grain of wheat deposited therein and again closed to prevent any loss, but have not tried it until lately, when my success leads me to believe the remedy has not had the publicity lts merit and the general welfare of the agriculturist demand.

The method of application is to visit the gopher's haunts, and where the freshest evidences are, dig down to his runway and remove the dirt carefully from the passage, and select from the vicinity a slender weed, stripped of its foliage and twelve or afteen inches long, on one end of which place a prepared raisin, and in the hale each way leading in the passage, place the raisin the full length of the sticks from the opening you have made. Cover up the hole carefully by first placing a stone, sod or something to keep the dirt from filling up the passage.

The dose should be repeated as long

But while it destroys gophers, I have known wood rats to fatten on the mixture, a fact which I cannot account for.

California dairymen should awake and organize for mutual protection and education, as their brethren in the East are doing. There they have dairy schools, reports from agricultural ex periment stations, and dairy conven tions, aided by the State. Here there are no organizations to push such work. Dairying as a Part of Farm Work

ISt. Louis Ren A few good cows rightly managed and properly cared for can be made fully as profitable as any other stock on the farm. But they must be good cows and given good care. No care, feeding or forcing, can make a cow that naturally gives thin, poor milk give rich milk, whi the other hand, the quality and quantity of a good milker may be considerably lowered by exposure and want of good feed. The posure and want of good feed. The aim in the management should be not only to develop the flow of milk, but the flow should be limited by its quality. Feeding water into a cow's milk makes no gain in butter or cheese. In the dairy the value of the milk must be determined by what it will make in butter and cheese.

Whenever the milk begins, which should be after the heifer calves, nature finds an outlet in that direction, and there is soon an established relation between feeding and milk-giving that may be cultivated to the full capacity may be cultivated to the full capacity of the cow.

To realize the most profit the dairyman must be a close obsorver and be willing to look after and take care of small things. In many cases a failure to look after one or more of the smaller datally in from the capacity of the limit of of the details is often the cause of failing to get the best results. One advantage with cows is that if they are given good treatment they are rarely sick. Give treatment they are rarely sick. Give her plenty of good, wholesome food and a comfortable shelter, and if she is naturally a good milch cow she will go on giving milk in profitable quantities.

Another advantage is that, if the proper care is taken to manage the milk and cream so that a good quality milk and cream so that a good quality of product is secured, it is always marnot overstocked with really good butter, and it costs no more for feed and it is no more work to manufacture good but-ter than poor, so that, to a very consid-erable extent, the difference in price is the difference in profits.

Because the butter you make brings the same price as your neighbors at the country store, where little or no dis-crimination is made as regards quality, is no reason why you should make poor butter, as the best grades are not sold in this way or at the same prices. The quality must be above the average, and then the prices realized can be con-siderably above the average. Making siderably above the average. Making and selling butter at 8 or 10 cents a pound in summer, and 12 or 15 in win ter, does not pay, especially when, with a little care in making a better quality, twice these prices can be readily ob-

In the dairy, as in other work on the farm, the plan that will give the best results at the lowest cost is the one to be followed, no matter what may be in be followed, no matter what may be individual preferences. The plan of feeding and caring for the cows, or straining and setting the milk, of skimming and managing the cream, the churning, working, salting and packing the butter should be done in the way that will secure the best quality of product ready for the market most economically; and if in every detail this is followed there is no question but that farm lowed there is no question but that farm dairying can be made profitable.

Dairy Notes. E. W. Steele of San Louis Obispo ha Holstein that gave fifty-two pounds of nilk for 341 days, on an average.

The Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station in bulletin No. 12 says: "As much as 1 per cent. of fat may often be found in skim milk, and the milk of many cows does not contain even 2 per cent. of fat, and the average is from 2½ to 3½ per cent. of fat; often from 38½ to 50 per cent. of the fat goes of in the skim milk.

Many poultry-keepers complain that their hens will only lay semi-occasion ally, although they are well fed and well treated, and of good breeds. There is not so much of a secret in making hens lay. It does not depend so much upon the breed, or the feed, as upon care in not making the laying hens fat Hens that are to be fattened for market should be kept separately, and the others kept busy scratching from morning till night.

Good Breeds.

Probably the best pure breed of fowl raised as brollers are the Ply-mouth Rocks and Wyandottes, if the buyers are to be the judges, as both buyers are to be the judges, as both make snug built chickens, and furnish more meat, and of the better parts, when large enough to sell. The Brahmas are the most profitable to the grower in one way, they will attain greater weight at a given age, but are apt to be what is called "slabsided," long, lank and bony, unless kept too long to sell as broilers, and the Leghorn make a plump looking chicken, long to sell as broilers, and the Leg-horn make a plump looking chicken, that usually sells readily, but it is so small that it does not sell for a great deal of money when sold by the pound. Many prefer for broilers a cross be-tween the Leghorn and Brahma or Ply-mouth Rock, using the Leghorn male, thus reducing the size, and getting earlier maturity. The cross of the Leg-horn male and the Wyandotte hen, we think, would be better than either, as think, would be better than either, as it should retain the compactness, the full breast and early maturity of the

The following hints are drawn from an experience of thirty years in raising and keeping geese. There are raising and keeping geese. There are only three varieties of geese which need be considered—the African, Toulouse, and Embden or Bremen. The two varieties of China—Brown and White—although hardy, are not large White—although hardy, are not large enough and do not make pounds enough of flesh for the early market. The writer has been quite successful with two crosses, those made by mating an African gander and Embden geese, and then crossing the young geese with a pure African gander. The most perfect geese are the pure-bred African, as they mature earlier and will lay more eggs while young, and they are very vigorous and hardy. It is almost always usual to raise all of them that are hatched. The Toulouse, though a large breed of geese, are not quite as hardy breed of geese, are not quite as hardy in this latitude. They are fully as good layers as the African, but will not take on flesh quite as fast when fatting for the early market. The Bremen though not quite as large as either of the other two varieties, have the advantage of being pure white with a yel-low bill. When picked, their flesh is very white and will sell readily, yet are not as good layers as the others mentioned, seldom laying more than twelve or fifteen eggs to a clutch. The twelve or fifteen eggs to a clutch. The African or Toulouse will lay from fifteen to twenty-five. Every gosling may be regarded as worth $1 as soon as it is two days old. In the cross mentioned above an improvement is gained in the number of eggs, a marked improvement in the color of the flesh, and the green goose for early market, if well fatted, will sell very readily.

For food the goose depends largely upon grass. With plenty of grass land to range over, it will need little other food. In winter, they were about food. In winter I have my goose shed so arranged that the flock may run under the barn in the coldest weather. They are fed some cut rowen, hav, or corn silage, with a little corn or shorts and meal, care being taken not to get them too fat.

Poultry Notes.

New corn is not a good feed for fowls. A little mixed with other grain will not hurt much, but don't feed it in quantity In crossing these breeds, the Dominick and Plymouth Rock hens should be used the combs of both being straight and single, while the colors are nearly the same. At the recent meeting of the State Beekeepers' Association, a petition was prepared to the Legislature for an appropriation of $300 to be used for the publication of the convention proceed ings, and to issue bulletins of informa tion to honey producers. This is certainly a modest demand from an industry of considerable importance, which has nitherto been much neglected by the State.

Adulterating Honey.

At a recent meeting of the North American Beekeepers' Association, Prof. A. J. Cook of the Michigan Agricultural College, read an interesting paper on "The Detection of the Adul teration of Honey.

Prof C. V. Riley, in the discussion that followed Prof. Cook's paper, stated that he had gone into the open market and purchased fifty different preparations of honey, from which he made a careful analysis, and found that 45 per cent. was adulterated. The adultera tions were not prejudicial to health, but operated against the beekeepers, who could not produce and sell pure honey as low as the spurious article. W. M. Evans of Amherst, Va., favored the introduction of bills in State legislatures that would put a stop to adulterations, not only of honey, but of other foods or drinks,

The following sections are contained in the draft of a bill prepared by Mr. Evans for introduction in the Virginia Legislature: Beekeepers who feed their bees on glucose or other syrup mixtures to cause them to store it as surplus honey, to be sold in comb or as extracted honey, shall label the product accordingly, under penalty of $100.

Merchants, to plead ignorance to avoid any of the penalties, must demand from manufacturers and jobbers a guarantee with each bill of purchase, that the provisions of this act have been

Since the inauguration of the Cudahy pork-packing enterprise many inquir ies have been received in Los Angeles from farmers in the surrounding country who are anxious to go into the raising business. Numerous instances might be cited of the large profits which have been made in the business in Southern California. What has hither business in to been lacking is a steady market for hogs. Now, that this is assured, we may look for something of a boom in that branch of the farming industry.

Raising Geess for Market.

[American Agriculturist]

It is often wondered why geese are not more generally raised by farmers.

Warm food to pigs, and there are others advantageous. Numberless statements have tageous. Numberless statements have been published to show the desirability of both the processes. A set of experiments, just concluded, makes it appear that there is no appreciable difference in the number of pounds of grain required to produce a pound of increase in the live weight of a pig, when it is given steamed and warm, as compared with grain raw and cold. Another point, too, was accentuated, that there is a gradual and great increase in the quality of grain consumed for every pound of increase after the second month of fattening period, and after the average light weight exceeds 100 pounds. Therefore it is economical to market animals to be slauphtered when market animals to be slaughtered when they weigh from 180 to 200 pounds live weight. The consumption of food per day is greatest when the quantity of food consumed per pound of increase is smallest.—To produce an increase of 13.23½ pounds in the live weight of twenty-four swine 4.14 pounds of a mixture of equal parts of ground peas, barley and rye were required for every pound of increase in the live weight. pound of increase in the live weight. A further experiment was made at the same time in order to test the value of ground and unground grain as compared with a ration composed of grain and skimmed milk. From this it appears that 4.45 pounds of grain (equal parts of peas, barley and rye) were consumed per pound of increase when fedunground and soaked for forty-eight hours, and 4.88 pounds of grain were consumed per pound of increase when consumed per pound of increase when fed ground and soaked for twelve hours. The pigs fed upon a ration con-taining skimmed milk were lustier and more robust than those fed upon grain only, and one pound of grain was found to be fattening equivalent to 6.65 pounds of skimmed milk.

There is quite an art in driving horse a long distance in a day, or make ing him do a long day's work without injury or over-exertion. In the first place, start out moderately and without any excitement. Drive quietly but steadily for a while, then allow a few minutes' rest, and start anew, getting a little better speed or a harder pull, and thus alternate, giving water at each stop in small quantities, and giv-ing time enough for dinner. In this way a good day's work can be done for several days in succession without overworking:

They are reported to have made several millions by the "deal."

Since the late rain, which has extended over sections where it was most needed, it is probably safe to predict that the largest grain crop ever harvested in Southern California will be marketed this year. Notwithstanding the inroads made on grain fields by horticulture, the area of grain is increasing, as fresh land in Antelope Valley, San Diego county and elsewhere is broken up. This land in time will also be utilized for deciduous fruit or chards, and then after some years, as land is Southern California becomes too valuable for wheat and barley, the area in grain will begin to decrease.

He is said to kill the dogs in November and December only, and to cure the meat in the same manner as pork is cured. Healthy dogs of any breed are used. The man and his family use the dog meat throughout the year, and he sells it to many invalids. He claims that it will prevent many dis-cases. THE NEW SMELTER.

Work on the Buildings to Commence at Once.

events to Eighty Tons a Day, but Can Be Increased to Over Two Hundred.

Work is to begin at once upon the buildings and furnaces for the new smelter, which is to be located near Ninth street, on the East side of the Los Angeles River. The plans, which were seen yesterday by a Times reporter, at the office of the company, are quite elaborate, and prove that the new institution will be a model one of its kind.

Dr. F. M. Endlich, the general manager of the Southern California Smelting and Refining Company, who has just returned from Chicago, brought with him the plans, which are to be at once submitted to contractors, and, as soon as bids are received and accepted, con-struction will begin at once and to completion. Dr. Endlich explained to the reporter

Dr. Endlich explained to the reporter his system for catching fine dust from the furnaces and preventing its escape into the atmosphere.

"You will see," said the Doctor, "that we will conduct all fine-dust, which is the same as smoke, into a dust-chamber which is ninety feet long, whence it passes into a smoke-stack ninety-nine feet high. Throughout the length of this dust-chamber will be obstructions, or dams, made of brick, nearest the furnace and canvas at the extremity toward the stack. These obstructions will catch the solid particles of dust so effectually that there will be scarcely any dust in the smoke which finally escapes 110 feet from where it originated in the furnaces. Running throughout the length of the bottom of the dust-chamber will be a screw which will carry out and deposit in a receptacle all the dust which settles in the bottom. It is estimated that nearly 5 per cent. of the ore passes from the furnace with the smoke. This dust is valuable, and it is to our advantage to save as much of it as possible."

"How will you use this dust?" asked as much of it as possible."
"How will you use this dust?" asked the reporter. "We put it back and smelt it and save the dust it contains. As a matter of fact, this contrivance, which I invented myself and have already used successfully, saves all the dust and prevents it isoning the air."

"How about the sulphur fumes?"

"Oh, they come from the roasting furnaces, which will have a dust cham-ber about thirty feet long and a stack sixty feet high. The character of ore which we will handle will not call for frequent use of the roasting furnaces I do not think we will have to resort to reasting ore more than forty days in the year. What sulphur fumes are liberated will be so dissipated by the air as to be unnoticable and consequently not injurious. There has been much prejudice against this enterprise, but there can be no complaint against it when once its operation is seen." "What will be the capacity of the works?"

"At present from seventy to eighty tons of ore a day, but, as you see by the plans, we have provided for an exten-sion, with two additional furnaces which will give us a capacity up to 250

From Dr. Endlich the reporter learned much about the modus operandi of converting crude ore into refined silver. From the time that the ore is dumped into bins from the cars, which will be run direct to the works by means of spur tracks from both the Santa Fé and Terminal roads, until it emerges in bright, shining metal pigs, it passes through a variety of opera-tions quite bewildering to those who have no technical knowledge of the

The San Francisco Chronicle of Thursday has the following:

Mrs. Helen Burroughs, a young wife, received a sad surprise the other day, which induced her to go into the divorce court. She has been a resident of Oakland for some years. Her husband, Silas Burroughs, was also quite well known here. Three years ago he mysteriously disappeared from Oakland and there was much anklety as to his safety. A year passed and sull there was nothing heard from him by his friends. One day his faithful wife received some startling information that induced her to make an investigation. that induced her to make an investigation wife received some startling information that induced her to make an investigation. She found that her husband was a felon and was an inmate of San Quentin prison. When he ran away from Oakland he went to Los Angeles, and was there arrested for felony, convacted and sent to the penitentiary for a year. He next turned up in Napa, where he committed a forgery, and fin 1691 was tried and found guilty and sent to San Quentin prison again for a term of seven years.

Mrs. Burroughs searched the record for the name of her missing busband, but it did not appear on the prison register. She finally ascertained, however, that he was sent to prison under the name of W. W. Wyman. The young wife was nearly hearthroken when she made this discovery, for she had patiently waited three years for the return of her absent husband. Yesterday by her attorney, E. H. Shaw, she brought a suit for divorce against Burroughts on the ground that he has been convicted of a felony. The wife also asks for the custody of the two minor children, aged 6 and 8 years.
